BRITISH CHARGE RUSSIAN FORCE IN CONFESSIONS

"White Paper" Is Issued, Saying Several of Six Admitted Plots.

TRIAL SET THURSDAY; WOMAN TO TESTIFY

Technical Expert Claimed He Was Ordered by Superiors, Document Declares.

London, April 10 (U.P.).—Coercion approaching "third degree" measures was used by the Soviet authorities to wrench purported confessions from several of the six British representatives of the Metropolitan Vickers Electrical Co., the British government charged in a second "white paper" on the dramatic case issued tonight.

The government's document set forth plainly enough that the men had given what the Soviets alleged were confessions of guilt on charges of sabotage and espionage under which, if convicted, they can be shot.

However, the terms of the "white paper" left no doubt that the British government considered the so-called confessions worthless, and obtained under duress, and even then that they were, in the main, only admissions the men sought information on conditions in the Soviet union that was common knowledge.

Declared Ridiculous.

William H. Thornton, assistant to Allan Monkhouse, head of the electrical organization in Russia, was declared to have been questioned day after day, for as long as 21 hours at a stretch. Charges by the Soviets that Thornton admitted bribery and espionage were declared ridiculous and an effort was made to show that he only sought information concerning the prospects for more business in Russia which any business man might seek to discover.

The British document revealed that William MacDonald, a technical expert, who is the only one of the six not released on bail, confessed to a long list of crimes for which he claimed he received orders from his superiors in the Metropolitan-Vickers organization.

MacDonald was said to have chiefly implicated Thornton and Charles Nordwall, a constructional engineer.

The British Ambassador, Sir Esmond Ovey, reported that all the confessions in each case with the exception of MacDonald were obtained after

French Peace Plan Ready for Powers

Davis to Get Copy Today; Will Be Forwarded to London and Rome.

Paris, April 10 (A.P.).—France's proposed substitute for Premier Mussolini's four-power peace plan was ready tonight to be forwarded to London and Rome, and it was expected that a copy would be handed unofficially tomorrow to Norman H. Davis, American Ambassador at Large.

Mr. Davis returned from Berlin, where he conferred with government leaders, including Chancellor Hitler, and he probably will see Foreign Minister Joseph Paul-Boncour tomorrow.

The French proposal is a draft agreement setting forth various points France made in objecting to the Mussolini scheme. The French would have four-power collaboration operate completely within the framework of the League of Nations.

U. S. Employes Given Right to Inventions

Sweeping Possibilities Seen in High Bench Ruling They Are Entitled to Benefits, Even When Work Is Done on Government Time.

In a decision of sweeping possibilities, the United States Supreme Court ruled yesterday that Government employes are entitled to patents on inventions resulting from their own ideas even though the work is done on Government time, providing the inventions are not the direct outgrowth of work done on particular subjects by direct assignment.

To the many scientists and engineers in the Government services, the decision would undoubtedly open new opportunities, but it was pointed out that the decision may be too far reaching in its possibilities.

Thus it was intimated last night by officials of the Bureau of Standards that legislation may be instituted requiring Federal employes perfecting inventions on Government time to turn them over to the United States. It was contended that such legislation was the only alternative left for the Government since under the decision no Government agency can compel inventors in the Government services to sign over their rights.

F. S. Holbrook, chairman of a special Bureau of Standards committee dealing with the problem, described the Supreme Court ruling as "unfortunate" in the light of contentions of private individuals that inventors with Federal laboratory facilities have an unfair advantage.

"The majority of our employes voluntarily assign their patent rights to their Government, and many dedicate them to the public, refusing in either case to benefit monetarily from them," Mr. Holbrook said.

"It is a safe prediction that in the future the majority of employes will continue to make this assignment."

Mr. Holbrook pointed out, however, that even under the Supreme Court ruling, the Government has a "shop right" in inventions developed under its auspices, and can use them without payment of the usual royalties.

He said the decision would un-

HERRIOT TO INFORM, NOT BARGAIN, HERE

Britain, France and Canada Have Officially Accepted Roosevelt's Bid.

(Associated Press.)

Great Britain, France and Canada have officially accepted President Roosevelt's invitation to send representatives to Washington for talks on international economic problems.

Most of the other eight nations included in the invitation have indicated their acceptance and are considering whom of their statesmen or financial experts to send.

Former Premier Edouard Herriot of France, whose government was defeated last December on his insistence that the French war debt installment should be paid, will be his nation's free agent—an informant rather than a negotiator—in the discussions.

He will leave France the middle of April, perhaps at the same time Prime Minister MacDonald of Great Britain will depart.

M. Herriot will not be empowered to make decisions at Washington. Any declaration will be communicated through Ambassador Andre de Laboulaye, for the French government expects the conversations will primarily outline a course for the world economic conference to be held later in London.

Prime Minister MacDonald will be free to discuss any and all Anglo-American and world problems. His purpose, he said, "is not to negotiate or fix an agreement, but to discuss questions with which both of us are confronted."

Mr. MacDonald will leave London next Saturday.

Germany, Italy, Japan, China, Argentina, Brazil, Chile and Mexico have not been heard from officially, but it is known that nearly all of them greeted the invitation with enthusiasm.

Prime Minister Richard B. Bennett will come to Washington at President Roosevelt's convenience to discuss affairs of the two nations in relation to world recovery.

Secretary Hull said silver and wheat topics—which are on the world economic conference agenda—will be dealt with in the informal discussions here, which he said, might embrace any or all of the subjects set for discussion at the London conference.

ITALO-REICH-PAPAL WAR ON REDS SEEN

Von Papen Sees Il Duce and Cardinal Pacelli; Will Visit Pius Today.

Rome, April 10 (U.P.).—A powerful new bloc aligning Fascist Italy, Fascist Germany and the Holy See in a war on Communism and kindred political movements was seen presaged tonight by conversations among the leaders of these powers here.

Vice Chancellor Franz von Papen, on a special mission to Rome and the Vatican from Berlin, conversed at length during the day with Premier Benito Mussolini and with Eugenio Cardinal Pacelli, the papal secretary of state.

Von Papen met these two leaders in separate conferences and inaugurated the parleys which have centered the eyes of Europe on Rome this week, where a new alliance is believed by many to be forming backed by powerful interests of church and state.

The possibility that Austria might join in this new alignment also was seen in the announcement at Vienna that Chancellor Dollfuss would fly to Rome tomorrow.

The German emissary first called at the Vatican to see Cardinal Pacelli He was accompanied by the German charge d'affaires in the embassy in Rome.

The conversations apparently laid the foundation for a more significant audience with Pope Pius XI tomorrow, for the Vatican in an inspired statement to the press said that the visit by Von Papen to the Holy See had been noted with great satisfaction.

This pleasure was aroused, the statement said, because of the per-

Test Pilot Plunges 6 Miles to Death

Lieut. Harold Fairchild Is Believed Victim of Oxygen Failure.

Easthampton, Conn., April 10 (A.P.).—Spinning down out of the sky after having attained an altitude estimated at 35,000 feet, Lieut. Harold W. Fairchild, 24, test pilot of the United Aircraft & Transport Corporation of East Hartford, was killed today as his pursuit plane crashed here in a densely wooded ravine.

Eyewitnesses, who first spotted the plane at about 2,000 feet, said it spun into the woods apparently out of control. The motor stopped at about 500 feet, indicating the pilot cut the switch just before the plane struck the ground.

Fliers expressed the belief that Lieut. Fairchild lost consciousness in the rarefied atmosphere about 6 miles high when his oxygen supply became exhausted. He was making a high-altitude test.

SENATORS SEEK LARGER RELIEF FUNDS FOR CITY

Increased Construction Appropriation Also Is Goal.

BALLOU WILL PLEAD TODAY FOR SCHOOLS

Green Voices Labor's Sharp Objection to Curtailing of Education.

By ROBERT C. ALBRIGHT.

Liberalization of local relief appropriations, and a more generous allotment of funds for District construction purposes, yesterday appeared the principal objective of the Senate District Appropriations subcommittee following initial hearings on the 1934 District budget.

Meanwhile, it became apparent that no great increase over House figures may be expected from the subcommittee, despite a broader attitude toward the District situation than the lower chamber manifested. Although some increases are anticipated in school and general construction items, the subcommittee for the most part is expected to follow closely the recommendation of the Budget Bureau.

Superintendent of Schools Frank W. Ballou will appear before the subcommittee this morning after the Commissioners complete their testimony. The fight to save school items from sweeping cuts proposed in the House bill gained fresh support yesterday when President William A. Green of the American Federation of Labor issued a statement sharply criticizing threatened school curtailment.

Plan for Relief Funds.

The subcommittee yesterday considered a plan whereby relief needs can be met in excess of the $1,250,000 provided in the bill for aid purposes. Local relief administrators would not be limited each month to one-twelfth of the total appropriations. They would apply to Congress to make up any shortage.

The proposal immediately met the opposition of House Appropriations Chairman James P. Buchanan, who told newspapermen it would be "inviting a deficiency." Members of the Senate subcommittee, however, were convinced on the basis of testimony that a more adequate local relief arrangement will have to be set up.

Construction projects reported as having the best chance of restoration to the sharply depleted bill were said to be Calvert Street Bridge, over Rock Creek, and the new Woodrow Wilson High School. Senators were impressed by evidence showing the immediate necessity of replacing the Calvert

Agile Agello

Italian Flies Seaplane at 7 Miles a Minute to Set New Record.

Desenzano, Italy, April 10 (U.P.).—A new world speed record was set by Warrant Officer Francisco Agello, of the Italian Navy, in a seaplane here today, when he averaged 690 kilometers (428½ miles) an hour.

The world record was claimed officially for Agello with an average speed of 682.403 kilometers an hour (423.772 miles an hour).

The previous record of 655 kilometers was set by Flight Lieut. G. H. Stainforth, of Great Britain, September 29, 1931.

The official announcement by the Italian authorities tonight said that Agello flew a "Macchi-Castoldi 72" seaplane of 2,500 horsepower, with a Fiat engine. Timekeepers of the Italian Aero Club officiated. They will apply for recognition of the record by the International Aeronautical Federation of Paris.

Tennessee Valley Program Presented to Congress in Special Message.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt put his Tennessee Valley program before Congress yesterday in a message asking rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals, Alabama, power and nitrate plant.

He asked creation of a Tennessee Valley authority to supervise the development of power, flood control, forest conservation and improvement of agriculture.

"It is time," the President wrote, "to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many States directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers.

"If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in a like development of other great natural territorial units within our borders."

Senator Norris (Republican), of Nebraska, told reporters he would introduce a bill to carry out the Presidential recommendations at once.

Informing inquirers that the bill will reach the House also today, Chairman McSwain of the Military Committee there said the measure would

Surviving Officer Details Weather Conditions to Probers.

METHOD OF MEETING STORM IS DESCRIBED

Avoids Criticism of McCord, but Says His Course Would Be Different.

Lakehurst, N. J., April 10 (A.P.).—A naval court of inquiry learned today the U. S. S. Akron had reports that the weather was unfavorable for her purpose when she took off last Monday on the fatal flight that plummeted her into the sea from lightning-swept skies.

Lieut. Comdr. H. V. Wiley, sole surviving officer of the great dirigible, testified that he and the commander had been informed the weather would be adverse for taking radio compass dimensions off New England, that visibility would be poor and that bad weather conditions over Michigan were moving northeastward.

He added, however, that in his opinion "there was no feeling of danger or apprehension in starting the flight at that time."

Moffett's Body Found.

During the day the body of Rear Admiral William A. Moffett was recovered off the Jersey coast.

A trim figure in his blue dress uniform and iron gray hair, Wiley, speaking slowly and evenly, also informed the court that his thought when lightning first glared to the south after the ship had left Philadelphia was to change the course to the westward from the southerly direction the ship was taking down the Delaware River. Commander McCord, skipper of the ship, ordered the course changed to the eastward, however, and the ship moved across New Jersey to its rendezvous with destruction off Barnegat Inlet.

His face slightly flushed, Wiley, second in command on the Akron on the last flight, emphasized he did not wish his remarks to be construed as criticism of McCord, whom he praised for his "competent" handling of the ship, for setting the course he did.

Wiley Explains Doctrine.

"My own doctrine," said the gray-haired officer, speaking of what he has taught on storms in the station ground school, "has been to place the ship on the west side of a circular storm in the Northern Hemisphere."

"That is why you would have laid your course to the westward?" asked

Skoda Scandal Hearing Broken Up by Fist Fight

Bucharest, Roumania, April 10 (A.P.).—The speaker's rostrum in Parliament was wrecked today in a stormy session over the Skoda munitions scandal, and the session ended in a fist fight.

Opposition deputies have charged that Roumanian military secrets have leaked out to foreign powers through the Bucharest agent of the Czechoslovakian Skoda Co. There also have been charges that prominent Roumanians received huge bribes for placing orders with Skoda.

Woman Convicted As Kidnaper's Aid

To Be Tried Today on Plea of Insanity in Abduction of Dean's Wife.

Los Angeles, April 10 (A.P.).—Luella Pearl Hammer, 35-year-old musician, was convicted by a jury late today of participation in the kidnaping last January of Mrs. Mary Skeele, elderly wife of Dean Walter F. Skeele, of the College of Music of the University of Southern California. She will go to trial tomorrow on her plea that she was not guilty by reason of insanity.

Miss Hammer, who frequently interrupted the trial by laughter and wild gestures, received the verdict with a grin.

A. H. Van Dorn, who went to trial with Miss Hammer, but pleaded guilty last week, was sentenced today by Superior Judge William T. Aggeler to a ten year to life term. If the jury finds Miss Hammer insane she will escape prison punishment. Otherwise the law provides that she also be sentenced to serve from ten years to life.

House Cafe to Serve Beer; Licensing Is Now Question

Special Subcommittee to Decide Today Whether Commissioners Have Authority to Grant Permits; Brew Available Possibly by Tomorrow.

Beer will be served to members of Congress in the House restaurant. That much was decided yesterday by the House Accounts Committee. But what the committee failed to decide was whether the Commissioners have authority to license sale of beer, or anything else for that matter, in the United States Capitol.

A special subcommittee, composed of Representative Kramer (Democrat), California, and Representative Wolfenden (Republican), Pennsylvania, last night was puzzling over the latest dilemma, and will announce their decision today.

Regardless of the finding, Frank Verdi, manager of the House restaurant, forecasts sale of beer in the restaurant by tomorrow, with many varieties available.

If the subcommittee decides the Commissioners must license the sale, he will have to apply for a permit and pay $100 today. If it decides otherwise—well, let the corporation counsel take action to stop him.

The House Accounts Committee voted, 5 to 4, to permit sale of beer in the restaurant, but only in bottles. Later Speaker Rainey intimated it might be sold in the House Democratic and Republican cloakrooms also, but, after thinking it over, he ruled against it. He was under the impression that additional licenses, at $100 each, would have to be taken out.

A subcommittee, composed of Representative Cochran (Democrat), Missouri, and Representative Carter (Republican), Wyoming, called on Speaker Rainey and recommended against cloakroom sales.

Chairman Lindsay C. Warren, of the [illegible] Committee, did not vote when the committee count was taken. "I vote to you," he said to committee members. "I want to obtain as many brands as possible, and let the members and the public choose the kind they like best," commented Manager Verdi.

LEAP FROM BRIDGE FATAL TO VETERAN

Failing to heed the shouts of horrified witnesses, a man yesterday afternoon climbed to the south railing of Pennsylvania avenue bridge and executed a backward swan dive to his death in the muddy waters of Anacostia River.

While hundreds of curious persons watched from the shore, his body was recovered two hours later, 5:45 p. m., by Harbor Policemen R. C. Ault and C. E. Adams, who combed the waters with drag hooks.

The man was rushed to Casualty Hospital by Fire Rescue Squad No. 1, where he was pronounced dead and identified as James A. Linam, 37, of Dadeville, Ala., a World War veteran. He is survived by his mother living in Dadeville. Identification was made by Helen J. Sparks, a roomer at 116 Ninth street southeast, where Linam made his home in Washington. She said the man had been gassed during the war and was despondent over his health.

Witnesses said that after the man plunged into the water he swam under the bridge against the current until he was on the north side of the bridge. Then he turned and floated with the current for a few yards and sank beneath the waves.

He made no effort to summon help and seemed to make little effort to keep himself above water in spite of his apparent ability to swim, witnesses said.

His hat, found floating near the shore several minutes afterward, bore the initial "P" and the label of a Washington clothing store. A fishing rod, found close to the spot where the man was seen standing on the bridge was believed his.

The Fire Rescue squad and police were summoned to the scene by a passerby from a public emergency police call station recently installed in Washington and vicinity by Maj. Ernest W. Brown, superintendent of police.

Woman's Body Washed Up at Virginia Beach

Norfolk, Va., April 10 (A.P.).—The body of a young white woman which washed ashore at Virginia Beach today was identified by police as that of Ida Lee Owens, of New York, who disappeared from the Eastern steamship liner Robert E. Lee on the way from New York to Norfolk Saturday night.

Mrs. Judd Loses New Trial Appeal

Judge Says He Lacks Authority to Act on Accusation of Jury Deal.

Phoenix, Ariz., April 10 (A.P.).—Winnie Ruth Judd's effort to obtain a new trial on the charge of murdering Agnes Anne Leroi failed abruptly today in the same courtroom in which she was found guilty and sentenced to die.

Superior Judge Howard C. Speakman, ruling the State Supreme Court had stripped him of authority and jurisdiction in its rejection of her appeal, declined to entertain the new tial motion, which had been filed with affidavits alleging a jury "deal" for imposition of the death penalty to "make her talk."

The court's decision was made without hearing of arguments.

Baby Forgotten in Car Crash, but Is Not Hurt

Burgettstown, Pa., April 10 (A.P.).—Left under an overturned automobile and forgotten in the excitement, a 4-months-old baby owed its life today to the chance recollection of one of six seriously injured persons.

An ambulance had brought the injured to a Burgettstown hospital before 4-months-old Helen Barron was missed. They found the child, wrapped in blankets and uninjured, under the hood of the car, which had gone over a 20-foot embankment.

RAIL CZAR NEED AIRED AT PARLEY IN WHITE HOUSE

Problem, Without Final Decision, Left With President.

DRAFTS OF NEW LAW EXAMINED CLOSELY

I. C. C. to Begin Searching Inquiry Into Freight Rates Soon.

(Associated Press.)

Determined on prompt action to restore the railroad industry, President Roosevelt last night personally took over the dispute on ways and means of accomplishing results.

A three-hour White House conference, lasting nearly until midnight, resulted in a rather definite understanding for appointment of a Federal coordinator to guide the rail system to better days, but no agreement was reached on the methods he is to pursue.

Rail executives and labor have been unable so far to reach a final decision satisfactory to each. They have put the issue up to the President. Mr. Roosevelt therefore called in the special and unofficial committee which has been studying the problem with a view to getting action before the end of the week.

Full Support Indicated.

The presence of Secretary Woodin and Director Douglas of the Budget led to the conviction here that the administration is preparing to put full support behind the mighty national rail system.

Also, it is definitely understood that the President wants quick reorganization of the carriers to bring about savings and get them on a paying basis.

Secretary Roper, Joseph B. Eastman, of the Interstate Commerce Commission, and W. W. Splawn, member of the special committee which has been examining the railroad problem, were the others at the White House parley.

Eastman is regarded as the likely choice of the President for Federal coordinator in the event the program finally agreed upon is approved by Congress.

Rate Hearings to Start.

The Interstate Commerce Commission yesterday fixed April 24 as the date for the opening of hearings on the petitions for revision of freight rates. Apparently this, too, is a part of the administration program, although the commission is acting entirely on its own initiative.

Secretary Roper, spokesman for last night's parley, said it was expected the President would determine finally on his bill by the latter part

Ice Cream Penny a Pint In Cleveland Price War

Cleveland, April 10 (A.P.).—Children clutching pennies trouped into five stores in one neighborhood today and gleefully had their fill of ice cream. Each penny was good for a pint.

A "price war" started in the neighborhood today and the price dropped from 15 cents to 10, 8 and 5 cents, finally hitting the 1-cent level about the time school children came from their classes in the afternoon. One store reported it had sold three truck loads.

BRECKENRIDGE LONG IS SLATED FOR ROME

Decision on This and Other Political Plums Is Expected Shortly.

(Associated Press.)

Decision on recipients of the many choice political appointments still dangling temptingly from the Democratic patronage tree are taking shape rapidly and probably will be announced shortly.

Unless there are changes in present plans, Breckenridge Long, of this city, will be Ambassador to Italy; James W. Gerard, of New York, will be Ambassador to Argentina, and John Cudahy, of Milwaukee, will become Ambassador to Cuba.

Other appointments regarded in authoritative circles as virtually certain are J. F. T. O'Connor, of Los Angeles, as Comptroller of the Currency; T. A. Walters, Idaho Democratic chairman, as First Assistant Secretary of Interior, and Mayor James M. Curley, of Boston, as Ambassador to Poland.

3 Nominations Sent.

President Roosevelt yesterday sent to the Senate three nominations—Mayor Frank Murphy of Detroit, to be Governor General of the Philippines; L. W. Robert, jr., of Atlanta, to be Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, and Peirson M. Hall, to be Federal attorney for the Southern District of California.

Meanwhile, Democrats who, a few weeks ago, were disturbed at the delay by the administration in distributing patronage were eyeing even more anxiously the hewing away of jobs with the economy axe.

The application of a flat billion dollar cut to Governmental expenditures toward which President Roosevelt is heading means inevitably thousands fewer jobs.

And even Democrats on Capitol Hill who advocated the stern retrenchment program are wondering how they will satisfy job-hungry constituents who poured in their applications almost simultaneously with the November election returns.

Commerce Cut 10 Million.

Aided by Lewis W. Douglas, Director of the Budget, President Roosevelt is fast whipping his economy and reorganization program into shape and an announcement of further details is expected before many more weeks pass.

In addition to sweeping realignment of agencies involving the shifting of functions from one department to another the program means—as outlined by Secretary Roper—the cutting out of useless functions which can be classed as "luxuries" and the dismissal of "useless employes."

Roper said last night in an address that the $36,000,000 appropriated for the Commerce Department would be cut to $26,000,000, with the remainder impounded in the Treasury.

During the day the nomination of Joseph Woodrough, of Nebraska, to be a judge of the Eighth Circuit Court of Appeals was approved by the Senate Judiciary Committee.

Muscle Shoals Program Is Urged by Roosevelt

To the Congress:

The continued idleness of a great national investment in the Tennessee Valley leads me to ask the Congress for legislation necessary to enlist this project in the service of the people.

It is clear that the Muscle Shoals development is but a small part of the potential public usefulness of the entire Tennessee River. Such use, if envisioned in its entirety, transcends mere power development: it enters the wide fields of flood control, soil erosion, afforestation, elimination from agricultural use of marginal lands, and distribution and diversification of the industry. In short, this power development of war days leads logically to national planning for a complete river water shed involving many States and the future lives and welfare of millions. It touches and gives life to all forms of human concerns.

I, thereore, suggest to the Congress legislation to create a Tennessee Valley Authority—a corporation clothed with the power of government but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise. It should be charged with the broadest duty of planning for the proper use, conservation and development of the natural resources of the Tennessee River drainage basin and its adjoining territory for the general social and economic welfare of the Nation. This authority should also be clothed with the necessary power to carry these plans into effect. Its duty should be the rehabilitation of the Muscle Shoals development and the coordination of it with the wider plan.

Many hard lessons have taught us the human waste that results from lack of planning. Here and there a few wise cities and counties have looked ahead and planned, But our Nation has "just grown." It is time to extend planning to a wider field, in this instance comprehending in one great project many States directly concerned with the basin of one of our greatest rivers.

This in a true sense is a return to the spirit and vision of the pioneer. If we are successful here we can march on, step by step, in a like development of other great natural territorial units within our borders.

Moffett's 43-Year Career In Navy Replete With Valor

"For the good of the ship" was the service motto of Rear Admiral William Adger Moffett, whose death in the Akron disaster took one of its famous admirals from the United States Navy.

Through his long naval career, which would have ended next November with his retirement from active service, Admiral Moffett conformed to the traditions of the Navy. Fearless, intrepid in battle and tireless in his work for his beloved service not only on the quarter-deck, but before congressional committees, his name will live in letters of gold on the annals of the American Navy.

The scion of leading families of South Carolina, he was born in Charleston on October 31, 1869, the son of George Hall and Elizabeth Simonton Moffett. In 1890 he was graduated from the United States Naval Academy.

He received his baptism of fire as a young officer under Admiral Dewey at the Battle of Manila on the U. S. S. Charleston and often spoke with pride and interest of his service in that historic conflict. The commanding officer of the U. S. Chester at Vera Cruz on April 21-22, 1914, he afterward received the Congressional Medal of Honor for his bravery there.

On July 26, 1902, Admiral Moffett married Miss Jeanette Whitton, and they had six children; Mrs. E. MacFarlan Moore, Lieut. George H. Moffett, U. S. N.; Ensign William A. Moffett, U. S. N.; Miss Elizabeth Moffett, who died several years ago; Charles S. Moffett and Miss Anna Beverly Moffett.

In World War Rear Admiral Moffett was commandant of U. S. Lakes Naval Training Station at Chicago, and was commandant of the Ninth, Tenth and Eleventh naval districts. He was appointed chief of the Bureau of Naval Aeronautics in September, 1921. Admiral Moffett was awarded the Distinguished Service Medal for his services in the World War.

It was 12 years ago that Admiral Moffett, who had enjoyed for years the pseudonym of "The Dynamo of the Navy," took to the air. President Wilson appointed Capt. Moffett chief of the newly authorized Bureau of Naval Aeronautics with the rank of rear admiral. In September, 1921, Admiral Moffett organized the nucleus of the Navy air service.

Admiral Moffett had a firm and abiding faith in airships and named the first one built by the American Navy, the Shenandoah, "Daughter of the Stars." When this ship crashed and many officers and men were lost Admiral Moffett was just returning from Hawaii where he had gone in the interests of Pacific expansion of Navy aeronautics. He never failed to regret that he was absent when this ship took its last flight and had a determination never to let other airships fly without him if he could possibly help it. Sometimes when those in charge of the Los Angeles and the Akron knew Admiral Moffett had been working hard in Washington they tried to "lose him" but he would speed up if he could to get on the airship for the important cruises.

As commander of the Chester Admiral Moffett won the Congressional Medal of Honor before Vera Cruz when he put his ship in the position of danger and received most of the shots.

When the first war clouds gathered in Europe Admiral, then Commander Moffett, with the rank of captain, was in command of the Great Lakes Naval Training Station at Great Lakes, Ill. It was an inland station, but the sons of prairies flocked to the station. Almost over night the trim rows of barracks and neat houses were supplemented by larger barracks and tents.

Unprepared America had to work fast to man the convoys for the troop ships, but every man who came from Great Lakes went imbued with the spirit of the Navy and that high purpose of carrying on for their country.

When Capt. Moffett left Great Lakes after the war he was put in command of the new clipper bow ship the great Mississippi, queen of the fleet, and his leadership and high order of Navy spirit placed this ship in the foreground in inspection, marksmanship and sports.

It was from the Mississippi that Admiral Moffett came to the Navy Department in Washington. He broke all precedence in being appointed to the post of chief of bureau three times.

In his work as technical adviser at the Washington Arms Conference and the London Navy Conference he won more laurels for himself.

Admiral Moffett was a member of the Army and Navy Club, University and New York Yacht Clubs of New York, Chevy Chase Club, Onwentsia and Highland Park Country Clubs of Illinois, Army and Navy and Marine Corps Country Club, American Legion, Loyal Legion of Valor, Aviation Commandery, Naval Order of the United States. He was a member of the Presbyterian Church.

'PREVAILING WAGE' LAW SUITS LABOR

Building Trades Council Officials Deny Favoring Repeal of Statute.

Officials of the Washington Building Trades Council denied yesterday that either they or any authorized spokesman of the organization favors repeal of the Bacon-Davis law requiring payment of prevailing wage rates on all Government building projects.

Taking note of newspaper reports published Sunday that some affiliated organization leaders were agitating repeal of the law because it is being circumvented by many contractors, F. M. Biggs, president of the Building Trades Council, stated no such suggestion has had come to his attention. Secretary John Locher also said he had not heard of the repeal movement. No one else is authorized to speak for the council, these officers said.

Those who seek repeal of the law carried their attempt to Capitol Hill yesterday in an endeavor to have the matter presented formally before the House Labor Committee. Although no decision has yet been reached, indications were that the question would not be taken up this session unless officials of the American Federation of Labor request such action.

Thus far the A. F. L. leaders have maintained their support of the law, which they demanded in the first instance. Violations of the act, they contend, can be eliminated by rigorous enforcement.

Plane Stowaway, Scared, Gives Up

Landings Made HimAfraid, He Says; Is Sentenced to 30 Days.

Harrisburg, Pa., April 10 (A.P.).—Julius Stone's "flying trip" from Newark, N. J., to his home in Camden, Mo., has been interrupted—for a matter of 30 days.

An "aerial stowaway" on a transcontinental airliner, he gave himself up because, he told Harrisburg airport authorities, he was "scared to death" when he felt the plane making a landing. He was given a 30-day jail sentence today on vagrancy charges.

Justice of the Peace Scott Coble, of Wormleysburg, said he sentenced Stone, who is 26, to the Cumberland County Prison to await further information from Newark and Camden and to await fingerprints from Washington.

Plan of Mortgage Relief Completed

Roosevelt Will Ask Quick Action of Congress on Measure.

(Associated Press.)

President Roosevelt completed plans yesterday for the home mortgage refinancing program which he will propose for immediate action by Congress.

At a conference with members of the Home Loan Bank Board and Henry Morgenthau, jr., the governor of the new Farm Credit Administration, it was decided to place the tremendous task of cutting down home mortgage debts through the home loan system.

Congressional leaders have virtually completed the bill which would authorize $2,000,000,000 in bonds to be exchanged for existing mortgages on a reduced interest rate.

POLICE EXONERATED IN FATAL SHOOTING

A coronor's jury yesterday exonerated Policemen J. F. Ryan and R. W. Moyer, of the Ninth Precinct, of all blame in the fatal shooting Friday morning of Daniel Courtney, colored, 38, of 807 First street northwest, as a suspect in the holdup of a laundry office at Fourth and H streets northeast earlier in the day.

The official verdict was as follows: "Policemen Ryan and Moyer shot in defense of their own lives and in line of duty as members of the Metropolitan Police Department."

The policemen had received a description of a colored man who held up the laundry branch and made off with about $13. While cruising in the vicinity they sighted Courtney, who answered the description of the man wanted.

Both Ryan and Moyer testified that they ordered the man to halt and that he started to run. They gave chase and fired several shots in the air. Suddenly the man turned, placing his hand inside his coat. The policemen said they believed he was about to draw a gun and they fired at him, one bullet striking him in the leg and the other in the chest.

A search of Courtney's person revealed a "numbers racket" book and nothing else. The colored man later said when he put his hand in his pocket he was getting ready to drop the book, the possession of which he thought was the reason the policemen were chasing him.

At the hspital, Mrs. Ruby Bradley, manager of the laundry, failed to identify Courtney as the one who held her up. He died last Saturday.

MORE RELIEF FUNDS GOAL OF SENATORS street structure, or making extensive repairs.

Maj. Daniel J. Donovan, District auditor, and the District Commissioners were questioned at length on the advisability of reducing the real estate property tax rate here from $1.70 to $1.50, but no conclusions were reached.

Effects of Tax Reduction.

Maj. Donovan discussed the question of declining revenues and the probable effect of a decrease in the tax rate at this time. He told the senators it is still possible there might be a slight deficit for the current year. Members of the subcommittee said they wanted to be certain that the estimated $6,000,000 surplus in 1934 under the budget estimates, would not be a "paper surplus."

The subcommittee delayed consideration of the "lump sum" issue. A Federal contribution of only $5,700,000 was provided in the House bill, as compared with $7,775,000 allowed currently, and $9,500,000 last year. The Senate consistently has fought to raise the fund over House figures.

In a formal statement yesterday, President Green of the American Federation of Labor, declared cuts in the school budget "will greatly weaken and greatly injure the service and influence of the public schools of the District of Columbia and their teaching staff."

"The thousands of members of organized labor who live in the District of Columbia do not want to see their children deprived of all opportunity to secure an education because of the curtailment of educational facilities," he said.

He asked that sufficient funds be restored to enable the schools "to function in a proper and adequate way."

CAMPS MAY ACCEPT MEN ONCE GIVEN AID

List of Those Being Helped Now Is Insufficient to Fill D. C. Quota.

Washington's quota of the first division of the reforestation army can not be filled from families now on the welfare associations' lists, and additional recruits may be taken from families which have received help from the associations in the past, Leroy A. Halbert, of the Emergency Relief Council, said last night.

Only 28 Washington men were sent to the conditioning camp as Fort Washington, Md., to reinforce the 26 men sent down last week. It is expected that all of Washington's quota of 500 will be filled by the end of this week, however. These 500 men will represent Washington's share of the first division of 25,000 to be enrolled in an army which will finally number 250,000.

Selection of the men was left to the charity associations in the seventeen cities from which the men come. Here the Relief Council thought at first that it could find 500 unmarried men between 18 and 25 on the lists of families receiving help. It now appears that only about 250 men can be found on these lists. A conference will be held this morning to decide whether qualified men from the "temporary help" lists may be chosen to eke out the men selected on the original basis.

The "temporary help" register lists families which have received aid in the past, but are not receiving it now, although they are known to be in straitened circumstances. Unmarried sons of these families also may be selected if they are willing to allot the major part of their $30-a-month pay to their families. No new registers will be set up, and no unmarried men without families will be sent.

Meanwhile, other nearby Army camps were reporting that conservation corps recruits from other cities were coming in. Yesterday Fort Humphreys received 178 men from Baltimore, in addition to 66 who came in Saturday. Of Saturday's draft, one man was rejected, and six or seven were rejected yesterday, but most of them are passing their physical examinations without difficulty.

Camp Meade received 482 men from Philadelphia on Saturday, and accepted 457 of them. They were expecting 799 additional last night, with a possibility that even more might come in. The conduct of these men is excellent, according to officers at the camp. They are amenable to discipline and no disciplinary action has been taken against any of them. Only two are in the hospital, one for observation and another ill from the effects of the inoculation. The general appearance of the men is high, and none of them are hoboes, it was reported. A few were reported as homesick.

AKRON STARTED OUT IN STORM THREAT

"Yes, sir."

Wiley said he mentioned the possibility of changing the course to the westward when he saw the first lightning flashes to the south. McCord, he said, told him in reply that he had noticed lightning in the west and was shifting the course eastward. In this regard, Wiley observed he had not seen any lightning flashes in the west himself until a half hour after this conversation in the control car.

After the ship took the course seaward a mistake was made in navigation, Wiley informed the court. "The captain told me he had ordered a 15-degree change in the course and that a mistake had been made and the course changed 50 degrees."

No apparent significance was attached to this either by the court or the judge advocate, and Wiley did not expand the statement.

Victims' Widows Attend.

In his testimony today Wiley recounted bit by bit all the details of the fatal trip from the takeoff in fog and poor visibility from here at 7:28 last Monday night to his last calm order, "stand by for a crash."

As Wiley unfolded his narrative, a small group of serious-faced, dry-eyed women in the improvised courtroom in the gas cell shop listened gravely. They were the widows and near relatives of men who had lost their lives in the crash.

Among the highlights of Wiley's testimony, to be continued tomorrow, were:

That the ship's 1,500 feet altitude during the storm was considered safe flying under the weather conditions;

That the fact the ship was 5,000 pounds heavy in the storm was not unusual, since it had weathered bad weather when 40,000 pounds heavy;

That McCord changed his course to 120 degrees true just before the crash broke because "he did not know where we were," and wanted to seek territory to the southeast where there was no danger of flying over a city with tall buildings.

And that the ill-fated Akron was, in his opinion, a trust-worthy ship.

Joint Committee Sought To Probe Disasters in Air

(Associated Press.)

The House agreed unanimously yesterday that a joint congressional committee should attempt to fix "responsibility" for all Army and Navy airship accidents, including that last week involving the Akron.

Without debate, it adopted the Bankhead resolution for a special committee of five House and five Senate members to consider not only accidents but the "utility" of airships for military or naval purposes.

The joint committee would be empowered, under the resolution sponsored by Representative Bankhead (Democrat), Alabama, to subpena witnesses and demand the production of evidence. It would report to the House "as soon as practicable."

Bankhead and others expect this report to include a recommendation whether the United States should continue building airships.

The Senate has yet to act on the resolution.

MAN PLEADS GUILTY TO EXTORTION NOTE

Is Liable for First Sentence to Be Imposed Under Lindbergh Law.

Less than one hour after the District Grand Jury had indicted Alfred A. Brockenborough, colored, on a charge of sending threatening letters through the mails to John R. Hawkins, colored, Republican party leader, Brockenborough appeared before Justice Daniel W. O'Donoghue yesterday in the District Supreme Court and entered a plea of guilty.

Justice O'Donoghue referred the case to the probation officer for a report. Upon it will be based the action to be taken against Brockenborough.

The charge is that he sent Hawkins, who is national secretary to the A. M. E. Church, a vice president of the Industrial Savings Bank, and one of the party leaders for the Republican party in the last election, a letter stating that unless $4,000 in cash was left at a designated spot on Sherman avenue he would be subject to bodily harm or possible death.

The letter was turned over to United States Attorney Leo A. Rover, who sent two detective sergeants to the appointed place. Early Sunday morning, April 2, the detectives arrested Brockenborough when he attempted to pick up a package that Hawkins had left there at 1:20 that same morning.

Questioned by Mr. Rover and Assistant United States Attorney John Fitzpatrick, Brockenborough admitted his guilt and when he was arraigned before United States Commissioner N. C. Turnage he pleaded guilty. His plea yesterday made him liable for the first sentence ever imposed here under the "Lindbergh law."

AID BOARD DECIDES TO TAKE NEW CASES

Special Committee's Policy Is Reversed; $42,000 Set as Weekly Limit.

The District Board of Public Welfare yesterday afternoon decided to reverse the policy of its special committee on emergency unemployment relief and to instruct Leroy A. Halbert, director of such relief, to accept new cases.

Ten days ago the special committee, of which Sidney F. Taliaferro is chairman, instructed Mr. Halbert not to accept any new relief cases and to reduce the total weekly expenditures so as to spread out the remaining funds until July 1, or the end of this fiscal year.

Since that time, Public Welfare officials said, numerous destitute cases have been brought to the attention of the Unemployment Aid Bureau.

$42,000 Weekly Limit.

The Welfare Board decided that all applicants should be given an equal chance so long as the existing funds last, but it instructed Mr. Halbert to exercise discretion in adding applicants to the present list of approximately 10,000 cases or families. A limit of $42,000 weekly expenditures was set inasmuch as only about $400,000 remains for unemployment aid until July 1.

Unless further funds are forthcoming, the relief committee will be without any money for the last three or four weeks on a $42,000-a-week basis. Public Welfare officials hope, however, that the District may get additional relief through passage of the Wagner-La Follette-Costigan measure and the reforestation program.

Last week's expenditures amounted to approximately $32,000. The additional $10,000 will take care of several hundred new cases, it is estimated, and may enable the relief director to increase the aid given those now on the active list.

Call on Reichelderfer.

James G. Yaden, president of the Federation of Citizens Associations, and a corps of federation executives called on Dr. Luther H. Reichelderfer, chairman of the Board of Commissioners, late yesterday to get some information regarding the District's needs and plans for unemployment relief both for the remainder of this fiscal year and for the next year.

"We got no figures nor much of anything," he said at the conclusion of the conference.

George S. Wilson, director of public welfare, was a party to the conference. Others are Thomas E. Lodge and Mrs. Elizabeth Sullivan, first and second vice presidents of the federation; George E. Sullivan, chairman of the laws and legislation committee; and Mrs. Clara W. Smith, chairman of the welfare committee.

The federation several weeks ago went on record as opposed to a bill which would authorize the Commissioners to borrow up to $2,500,000 from the Reconstruction Finance Corporation for unemployment relief work.

Party Aims to Make Hoover A Lincoln Yet, Says Pegler

G. O. P. Adopts "Give a Man Enough Rope" Policy—and If Something Goes Wrong They'll Recall Pre-Roosevelt Regime, Singing "Happy Days."

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

The politician is beyond understanding, but I hope none of my fellow citizens will misinterpret the momentary acquiescence of the Republican statesmen as a polity of altruistic cooperation for the good of the U. S. A. Politicians do not change and the present attitude of nonresistance, or passive-resistance, in time will reveal itself as the working of a plan to give Mr. Roosevelt and his party plenty of rope.

The Democrats, in a time just as critical as the present, took the opposite method to achieve the same result. They gave Mr. Hoover no rope whatever so that whatever he may have wished to do, he was prevented from doing lest, by any miracle, he should leave the people laughing as he said good-by. If Mr. Hoover could have obtained advance copies of all Mr. Roosevelt's measures during the last session of Congress and had submitted them in the identical way that Mr. Roosevelt did, they would have been turned down because there was no intention that he should be allowed to accomplish anything which would have been of any political value to his party regardless of any possible value to the country.

Nowadays, in Washington, it is the secret hope of surviving Republicans that Mr. Roosevelt and his party, in their enthusiasm and the frisky enjoyment of almost unlimited opportunity to err, will involve themselves in some perfectly ghastly mistake, and the sooner the better, which would ruin the Democrats all over again and make Mr. Hoover seem to have been not such a terrible failure after all. It will be pretty hard to make Mr. Hoover seem to have been good except by contrast with some one worse, and it makes a Republican politician gloomy to realize that Mr. Roosevelt can hardly be as bad as that. Even the most captious and optimistic tabulation of Mr. Roosevelt's faults up to now leaves Mr. Hoover with an overwhelming score, much of it having to do with his sulky personality, but wishing is free and the Democrats, with their proven knack for balling things up, might come from behind in the course of four years and make another Lincoln of Hoover, just by comparison.

It may be surprising to hear that Mr. Hoover left behind him some persons who yearn and dare actually to hope that he will be President of the country again, to be elected by Mr. Roosevelt's mistakes of the next four years. In that case it would seem that there could be very little country for him to be President of, but that is something which does not enter the calculations of a true politician. You may reckon that if Roosevelt should be bad enough to make Hoover look good, then the country couldn't hold together through four years of him. But the politician takes the country for granted. It has stood up under the government of many a gang of politicians with no interest but their jobs and the easy life and minor importance of their position and some pretty terrible Presidents, so why not?

The popularity which Roosevelt has won since his inauguration is due largely to so minor a thing as plain civility to the reporters who cover the White House. The job got Mr. Hoover down and with the exceptions of a few yes-men who told him he was misunderstood and a victim of circumstances and the times, bare tolerance was all that he could give or expect in his dealings with the press. The Roosevelts, on the other hand, put on a show with apparently never a dull minute and though it may be impossible to hold public affection through four years on card tricks and dialect stories it remains to be seen how long the act will continue to amuse and divert. They will get better than an even break in the papers, because the men on the White House run like the President personally and the girls, who have grown into a numerous corps, including some first-class hands who can write a good story without recourse to baby-talk, are growing very fond of Mrs. Roosevelt.

The status with the newspaper crowd of Roosevelt and Hoover may be compared to the old case of Dempsey and Tunney. Dempsey was friendly, especially to new reporters who were trying hard and likely to appreciate and remember minor words or deeds of kindness from the great man, but Tunney was offish, his word was not always reliable and he began his administration with a cordial insult to the whole craft. It is said of Mr. Hoover that he tried to be a good fellow, which overlooks the fact that he had to try, whereas Mr. Roosevelt seems to do it naturally. This is not to predict that all will be sweetness and mutual admiration between him and the reporters for four years, because he may feel rotten some day and take it out on some one of the boys or some pest may ask him some fool question calling for a short answer. But his disposition has been pretty well tried for a long time and he is likely to go through the four years with a pretty friendly press, as the opera people call it.

However, no end of stories about his cheery smile, civility, love of children and pets and the joke he cracked to old Mike, the gardener, will do him much good if the farm relief plan doesn't work or his economies are more than offset by new spending in whatever guise. This is the consolation of the Republican politician at the present moment. His hope is that by the end of four years, with the novelty gone from decimal beer and Tom-Thumb wine, there will be more and poorer poor whose condition, under Roosevelt, will have become so wretched that they will think of Hoover's term in office and murmur, "Happy Days."

CANNON LOSES PLEA IN SUPREME COURT

(Associated Press.)

The Government won, and Bishop James Cannon, jr., of the Methodist Episcopal Church South, lost in the Supreme Court yesterday on a decision revolving around an indictment against the churchman for violation of the corrupt practices act in his 1928 campaign against Alfred E. Smith.

The indictment was brought by the Government, charging that Cannon and his secretary, Miss Ada L. Burroughs, had failed to report all contributions alleged to have been received by them during that Presidential campaign.

The high court ruling yesterday held unanimously that Federal prosecutors had been right in asking the District of Columbia Court of Appeals to review the action of the Supreme Court of the District of Columbia in dismissing the indictment against the two.

Bishop Cannon challenged the jurisdiction of the District Court of Appeals, contending the appeal should have been taken directly to the United States Supreme Court. The District Court of Appeals asked instructions from the highest court.

Should the District Court of Appeals reverse the decision of the District Supreme Court the churchman and his secretary must stand trial. Had the high court decided differently yesterday Bishop Cannon would have been free from any further action, since the time limit would have expired.

The Supreme Court held in its decision, however, that the criminal appeals act, under which appeals in such cases would be taken directly from Federal District courts to the United States Supreme Court did not apply to criminal cases in the District of Columbia.

Without a dissenting vote, the court, in an opinion by Justice Roberts, declared the District Court of Appeals, under the code of laws for the District, had jurisdiction to determine whether the District Supreme Court had placed the proper construction on the corrupt practices act, and had correctly interpreted the indictment.

The District Supreme Court based its action in holding the indictment insufficient on the ground it failed to charge the contributions, not reported to the clerk of the House of Representatives, actually had been received by or accounted for to Bishop Cannon's secretary or that she had knowledge of them.

LEIBOWITZ IS HAILED BY FIGHTING PARADE

Scottsboro Case Defender Acclaimed in Disorder on New York Arrival.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Disorder scattered over a stretch of 52 blocks attended the return of Samuel Leibowitz from Decatur, Ala., late today, where he defended Haywood Patterson in the "Scottsboro case."

A group of Negroes carried the lawyer on their shoulders from his train to a taxicab and then whites and Negroes, which police numbered at 3,000, formed a parade on Broadway, starting near Pennsylvania station.

Police in the Thirtieth Street Precinct, taken unawares by the marching column of fours, telephoned ahead to the Forty-seventh Street Station. When the column reached Times Square police charged them with nightsticks and ordered them to disperse.

Hand-to-Hand Fighting.

Hand-to-hand fighting followed. Patrolman William Griffin was beaten by a group of Negroes until white passers-by fought them off. Griffin arrested George Northcroft, 36, Negro house painter, as the man who had kicked him in the mouth and knocked out a tooth. A Negro woman, Rebecca Butler, 28, collapsed and was taken to a hospital for treatment of bruises.

After this interlude the parade reformed and got as far as Fifty-third street before the police charged again. Half the marchers scurried into side streets, but the others reassembled and marched on to Fifty-ninth street and attempted to hold a meeting in Columbus Circle.

The emergency squad from the Eighty-eighth Street Precinct reinforced the policemen already on the scene and attempted to dispose of some 1,000 persons listening to speakers. Many of the marchers fled as policemen swung their nightsticks at their legs, but the others marched on.

Meeting Broken Up.

At Sixty-eighth street they tried again to hold a meeting and the police broke them up. At Eighty-sixth street the final set-to occurred. The harried marchers broke up into pairs and small groups and continued quietly uptown toward Harlem.

The entire proceeding lasted about two hours. Mr. Leibowitz had driven homeward in his taxi before the parade formed.

Characterizing the conviction of Patterson as "lynch justice," the American Civil Liberties Union in a statement issued today by Roger N. Baldwin, director, announced plans to help in obtaining an appeal for Patterson and for the raising of funds for the defense of the other defendants.

The International Labor Defense announced petitions to be presented to President Roosevelt would be nationally circulated demanding a new trial for Patterson.

FLYING YACHT READY FOR PRESIDENT

For the first time in history a special flying yacht bearing the golden seal of the President of the United States waits at the Anacostia Naval Air Station ready to carry the Chief Executive on any trip he may desire to make. The presidential ship is a twin-engined Douglas amphibian and carries two pilots and four passengers. With the exception of more luxurious appointments it is a sister ship to the Coast Guard plane Sirius in which Lieut. Comdr. Elmer F. Stone flew from Anacostia to sea a week ago today in a futile search for survivors of the Akron disaster.

DR. HENRY VAN DYKE DEAD AT PRINCETON

Noted Essayist and Former Diplomat Wilson Friend; Was 80 Years Old.

Princeton, N. J., April 10 (A.P.).—Dr. Henry Van Dyke, poet, essayist, preacher and former diplomat, died at his home, Avalon, today after a year's illness. His personal physician, who said his strength had been failing for several weeks, said Dr. Van Dyke died in his sleep. He was 80 years old.

World-famous as an educator and writer of verse, Dr. Van Dyke was honored by universities here and in Europe. President Woodrow Wilson, with whom he was on terms of intimacy at Princeton University, made him Minister to The Netherlands and Luxemburg, but his diplomatic career was brief. He resigned in 1917.

Since 1923 he had lived in retirement in Princeton, happy in his philosophy that "the world is getting better," quietly busy with his verses and his studies, never losing contact with the outside world.

Last December he and his wife celebrated their fifty-first wedding anniversary. Besides his widow, the former Ellen Reid, of Baltimore, Dr. Van Dyke is survived by a son, the Rev. Tertius Van Dyke, pastor of the Congregational Church, of Washington, Conn.; four daughters, Mrs. W. Hamilton Gibson and Mrs. Murray P. Brush, of Chicago; Mrs. Henry Chapin, of Bermuda, and Miss Elaine Van Dyke, of Princeton. A brother, Dr. Paul Van Dyke, Edwardes professor emeritus of Princeton University, also survives.

Treatment for Addicts Urged by Tribal Council

Pawhuska, Okla., April 10 (A.P.).—Habits acquired by some Osage Indians in times of prosperity were the target of a drastic prohibitory measure recommended today by the tribal council to the Oklahoma congressional delegation in Washington with an urgent request for enactment.

The proposed special Osage act would direct that Federal courts determine whether members of the tribe are habitual users of intoxicants or narcotics, and order that those found to be so addicted be committed to institutions until the habits are corrected.

Thief Mercy

Bandits Who Maimed Victim Save His Life by Bandaging Wound.

Special to The Washington Post.

Clarksburg, W. Va., April 10.—Two bandits who slugged, tied and robbed J. Nelson Swiger, 85, retired farmer, at his Laurel Run home, near Rosebud, mercifully saved his life by bandaging an ugly wound he suffered on a hand while battling with the robbers.

This was made known today by Corporal Dorsey C. Bailey and Corporal H. M. Fox, of the State police, who resumed their investigation at the scene of the holdup this afternoon.

After beating and binding the aged man, the bandits searched the house, finding $75. Then, realizing that their victim was in a serious condition from the loss of blood, they searched the house again and found bandages and a healing salve, with which they bound up his wounds.

The holdup took place in early night and Swiger did not free himself from the bonds until morning.

AERIAL STUNT FLIER LOST IN GULF LEAP

Is Believed Drowned After Fireworks Jump; Wife Is in Cumberland.

Brownsville, Tex., April 10 (A.P.).—Boats patrolled Gulf of Mexico waters in vain today for a trace of William G. Swan, parachute jumper who disappeared in a fog on a fireworks exhibition leap from a plane 8,500 feet up 2 miles off shore.

Officers expressed the belief he had drowned.

The fog which sprang up at dusk yesterday screened Swan from spectators on the beach who, through binoculars, saw him go over the side of the plane, release a parachute bearing fireworks, and then open his own.

P. H. "Slats" Rogers, Swan's pilot, followed him down part of the way, but he also lost sight of him.

Rogers said the wind at the time was from such a direction as to blow Swan toward land. He said he had flown about ½ mile offshore when Swan directed him to go still farther.

Swan's wife, a granddaughter of the late United States Senator George L. Wellington, of Maryland, was advised of the accident at Cumberland, Md., where she was visiting relatives.

Chicago Beer War On Gangmen Urged

Employers' Group Calls on Businessmen to Wage Finish Battle.

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Declaring organized gangsters have prepared a united front to attempt control of the legal beer industry, the Employers Association called upon Chicago business men today for "a battle to the finish."

"The advent of legal beer," the association said in a statement, "signalizes the opening of one of the deadliest battles that has yet developed on the hoodlum front.

"The hoodlum bosses of the rackets will now go into action in the new field of legitimate beer, prepared for the battle of their lives. It is going to be a battle which law-enforcement authorities and legitimate business interests outside the brewing industry can not view with detachment or unconcern."

Pay Dirt

Removal of Time's Grime on Painting Bought Cheap Bares Old Master.

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—When Miss Gerda Ahlm wiped away the film deposited on a canvas by Father Time she brought to light a portrait of Lord Byron by George Henry Harlow, missing for more than a century, she said today.

The picture was brought to Miss Ahlm, who is engaged in the business of restoring time-dimmed paintings, by a client who bought it in an old furniture shop.

"There can be no doubt about the authenticity," she said. "My client picked it up in an obscure shop dealing in old furniture. The price, I understand, was only a few dollars, but the canvas is probably worth $2,500."

MANN LOSES APPEAL IN LOTTERY DECISION

Conviction Is Affirmed by Court in New York; Term Must Be Served.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Conrad H. Mann, president of the Kansas City Chamber of Commerce and high official of the Fraternal Order of Eagles, must serve a prison term for conducting a lottery, the United States Circuit Court of Appeals ruled today in affirming his conviction.

The court affirmed the conviction of Mann, Frank E. Hering, editor of the Eagles magazine, and Bernard C. McGuire, a professional promoter, on charges of conspiracy, but reversed conviction on a charge of shipment of lottery tickets in interstate commerce.

Assistant United States Attorney Louis Mead Treadwell said the circuit court decision leaves unchanged the prison sentences of a year and a day for McGuire, five months for Mann and four months for Hering. Reversal of the interstate commerce charge, he said, will operate only to reduce the fines of Mann and McGuire from $11,000 to $10,000.

Mann, as head of the Eagles' department of bazaars and fairs, and Hering, a former professor and at present a trustee of Notre Dame University, were accused of conspiring with McGuire to promote a series of charity frolics, the tickets for which entitled the holders to participate in a national distribution of $75,000.

The Government charged that $1,759,273.69 was taken in and that "not one cent went to charity." The defense denied this.

Paul Jahncke Sued For Hurt Damages

Action Filed by Maurin in New Orleans Asks for $26,000.

New Orleans, April 10 (A.P.).—Paul F. Jahncke, socially prominent contractor, today was named defendant in a $26,000 damage suit filed in civil district court by J. Nolan Maurin, for alleged mental and physical injury suffered in a reputed assault at the Jahncke boat house last year when Maurin charged members of the Jahncke family attacked and beat him.

Criminal charges filed by Maurin several months ago in connection with the attack resulted in Mr. Jahncke and his son, Edward Jahncke, pleading guilty to assault and battery and paying fines in criminal district court.

Maurin claimed he was lured to the boat house on a message from Edward Jahncke inviting him to meet him privately "to settle" a personal difficulty.

Former Representative From Kentucky Is Dead

Louisville, Ky., April 10 (A.P.).—Charles Franklin Ogden, former Republican congressman from this district, died today. Mr. Ogden, who was 60 years old, had been in poor health since his return to Louisville from Washington in 1923.

He served two terms in Congress, from 1919 to 1923. He defeated Swager Sherley, Democrat, who had represented the district for many years, and was reelected by 12,600 votes two years later.

SPEAKEASIES OPEN FOR SALE OF BEER

Police of Baltimore Order Owners to Comply With Brew Regulations.

Baltimore, April 10 (A.P.).—Baltimore speakeasies, unhampered by city police for more than a decade, were operating with unlocked doors today after orders from police to comply with the city's regulations for sale of beer.

Police Commissioner Charles D. Gaither said the speakeasies had been ordered to procure licenses and admitted that the State law requiring all beer dispensaries to have open doors was being enforced.

Not since the then State Attorney General Alexander Armstrong held in 1920 that police had no obligation to enforce the Volstead act have Baltimore police attempted to halt sale of liquor.

The order requiring the open door policy was issued during the week-end and patrolmen and sergeants handed the order to the proprietors of each speakeasy on their posts Saturday and yesterday.

Establishments which in some cases had operated behind steel doors and peepholes for a decade, today did business with doors unlocked. In most instances a doorman remained on duty to give the signal if an unknown started in, since most of the saloons interpreted the order as meaning they must permit anyone to enter.

30 Days to Fix Appeal Given to Maj. Shepard

Wichita, Kans., April 10 (A.P.).—The United States Circuit Court of Appeals today granted attorneys for Maj. Charles A. Shepard 30 days in which to perfect an appeal to the United States Supreme Court from his conviction two years ago of the poison murder of his wife, Zenana, at Fort Riley, Kans.

The bond of $20,000 under which the Army medical officer has been at liberty was continued. Shepard was charged with administering poison to his wife in order to be free to marry Miss Grace Brandon, a young San Antonio, Tex., stenographer.

"Lysistrata" Case Judge Denies Nonsuit Motion

Los Angeles, April 10 (A.P.).—As a court of law sees it, the question of whether Aristophanes' ancient Greek comedy, "Lysistrata," is "lewd and immoral," depends on one's point of view. This dictum was voiced from the bench today by Superior Judge Henry M. Willis.

He accordingly denied a defense motion for nonsuit in the $226,000 damage action brought against Capt. Deighton McDonald Jones and his police squad by members of a "Lysistrata" play cast raided twice here more than a year ago.

Charges on Opium Raid Are Delayed

Seven Chinese Held as Police and U. S Agents Seek Origin of Drug.

Charges against seven Chinese arrested early Sunday in connection with the discovery of 50 tins of opium following a raid at 438 H street northwest, in the center of Washington's Chinatown, were being withheld last night pending investigation by agents of the Federal narcotic squad and immigration authorities.

Federal agents, aided by Detective Sergts. D. H. Jones and R. A. Saunders, of the local narcotic squad, are endeavoring to trace the source of the drug.

It was also learned last night that officials of the local branch of a well-known national tong yesterday conversed with several of the prisoners, as well as police officials.

The tong is known to be firmly opposed to the sale or consumption of the narcotic and there is a possibility that it may cooperate with Federal authorities in attempting to trace the source of the Washington Chinatown supply.

First Lady Would Interest U. S. Youth in White House

Greets Children Personally to Help Them Know What Government Should Be; Would Use Rapidan as Federal Picnic Ground.

By VYLLA POE WILSON.

A play to make the Presidential camp at Rapidan a glorified picnic ground for officials detained in Washing through the warm weather, arousing interest among American children in the White House as a symbol of government, and the problems arising from two persons in one family holding Government jobs, were among the timely topics discussed yesterday by Mrs. Franklin D. Roosevelt in her weekly conference at the Executive Mansion.

Mrs. Roosevelt, who had just returned from her morning ride in Rock Creek Park, was in riding costume when she received the newspaperwomen, a trim figure in regulation outfit and with a wide Eleanor blue ribbon her only headgear.

The special economy menus worked out in the home economics department of Cornell University were released to the press yesterday by Mrs. Roosevelt. No special cost of each menu was named, but it is known all materials can be purchased at low cost.

In the course of her conversation Mrs. Roosevelt laughingly related that her first intimation of the imminent arrival of leading European statesmen to attend the conference here was when President Roosevelt told her he would have a "few prime ministers" staying at the White House late in April.

Mrs. Roosevelt stated that both President Roosevelt and herself were charmed with the natural beauty of the Rapidan camp but do not feel that they could use it as a summer White House.

She revealed she is making a determined effort to shake hands with many of the thousands of school children visiting the White House during the spring holidays in the hope that she might help them to crystallize during these visits the spirit of what the Government should be. She pleaded for a better understanding by children of the children of other countries and deplored the bad habit of little Americans calling foreign children in this country by nicknames and offensive designations.

When asked whether she intended to visit the forestry employment camps around Washington, Mrs. Roosevelt replied that the President was planning such a trip of inspection and that she would accompany him. The First Lady of the Land expressed great interest in these camps and declared that while it was intended only as a stop gap that she believed the experience in the open would be good for all the men enrolled in them.

The great need of the moment is education of people for leisure, Mrs. Roosevelt pointed out in discussing the proposed 30-hour work week which she termed a "really interesting thing."

During the discussion over the recent proposal to dismiss one of every married couple in the Government service, Mrs. Roosevelt said she felt very strongly that questions of efficiency and the good of service should prevail. Often, she declared, the reason for both husband and wife being in Government service was that the average family could not support and educate children on the average Civil Service wage scale paid to one of them.

When questioned as to whether she had received many letters in regard to her recent statement on beer, Mrs. Roosevelt replied that comparatively slight correspondence had been received on the subject.

Mrs. Roosevelt flew to New York yesterday afternoon to attend the conference there today of leaders interested in labelling clothes made under decent conditions and how to combat the sweat shop evil. She will return to Washington tomorrow.

MICHIGAN IS FIRST TO RATIFY REPEAL

Cheers Follow Convention's Vote of 99 to 1 to End Prohibition.

Lansing, Mich., April 10 (A.P.).—Michigan, still legally dry, today became the first State to ratify repeal of the national prohibition law.

In crowded Representative Hall at the State Capitol and to the accompaniment of cheers, handclapping and the stamping of feet, a constitutional convention of 100 delegates elected in a plebescite a week ago voted 99 to 1 for elimination of the prohibition act from the constitution.

The vote was in accord with the preelection pledges of the delegates. The lone negative voice raised against ratification of the proposed twenty-first amendment to the constitution was that of Eugene Davenport, of Barry County, former dean of agriculture at the University of Illinois. To him the convention accorded the tribute of a resolution of commendation for his "courteus deportment."

State officials, including Gov. William A. Comstock, delegates, convention guests and visitors who jammed the floor, galleries and platform of the chamber, joined in the demonstration that followed announcement of the vote.

Princeton Institute Expects Scientist to Take Post There in Fall.

Madrid, April 10 (A.P.).—Prof. Albert Einstein, who has refused to return to Germany because of the anti-semitic movement there, today accepted an invitation to become a member of the faculty of the University of Madrid. He is expected here as soon as he has finished other engagements.

Dr. Abraham Flexner, director of the Institute of Advanced Study at Princeton, N. J., expressed the opinion today that Prof. Albert Einstein's appointment to the faculty of the University of Madrid was honorary, and that the German scientist would be here next fall to occupy the chair of mathematics at the institute.

Dr. Einstein had previously accepted the appointment to the institute at Princeton. Recently he expressed his pleasure at the appointment in a cable to Dr. Flexner.

Murphy, N. C., April 10 (A.P.).—Three former officials of the closed Cherokee Bank of Murphy were convicted of violating State banking laws in Superior Court here today and each was sentened to prison.

E. A. Davidson, 78-year-old president of the institution, was sentenced to serve five to eight years in State's prison. His son, J. W. Davidson, a bank director, was given a similar sentence. E. D. Storey, cashier, was sentenced to serve from three to five years. All served notice of appeal and were released on bonds.

Financier, on Crutches, Admits Theft Charges

Los Angeles, April 10 (A.P.).—Appearing on crutches, Leslie B. Henry, Pasadena financier and former president of the Tournament of Roses Association, pleaded guilty in Superior Court today to five counts of grand theft and five of forgery.

He was to have gone on trial today on charges of theft of $75,000 from Mrs. Charlotte Shelby, mother of Mary Miles Minter, former screen star. Henry filed application for probation and sentence was deferred.

WEATHER MENACES CHERRY BLOSSOMS

Tidal Basin Display May Vanish by Easter Should Yesterday Repeat.

The brief radiance of the cherry blossoms around the Tidal Basin may be dimmed and possibly gone by Easter, if summery weather prevails.

This was the prediction last night of Albert Clyde-Burton, public parks horticulturist, at the end of a day that attracted unusual week-day crowds to view the pink splendor of the Japanese blooms.

"One more day of today's type," said Mr. Clyde-Burton, "combined with a little rain and a stiff breeze and the blossoms will be half gone next Sunday. Several days of such warm weather and the probabilities for Easter will be even less propitious for the blossoms."

Under ordinary spring conditions, Mr. Clyde-Burton said, the blossoms last in full effulgence for ten days. Yesterday the earth temperature around the basin reached 40 degress at times, almost unprecedented, he said.

The blossoms were at the height of their glory yesterday and the basin waters rippled in their floral fringe to form an artistic delight.

The double-blooming trees around East Potomac Park are still diffident about displaying their charms, said Mr. Clyde-Burton. All of the buds were still "tight," he said, and are not expected to burst forth before April 22 or 23.

Bank Reform Row Stirred at Capitol

Administration Confronted With Forces That Split Party Last Session.

(Associated Press.)

The Roosevelt administration came face to face yesterday with the forces which split Democratic senators and representatives into liberal and conservative wings at the last session of Congress, as conflict arose among his congressional leaders over the new banking reform legislation.

In an effort to smooth out the controversy, which involves the fundamental question of what part State banks will play in the future set-up of the Nation's financial structure, Secretary Woodin will confer today with members of the Senate Banking subcommittee in charge of the legislation.

The controversy has come to a head in the bill being framed by the Senate subcommittee headed by Senator Glass (Democrat), Virginia.

The Glass group has drafted a bill designed to strengthen the Federal Reserve System, and make it attractive to State banks. Critics of the measure contend it would force State banks into the Federal system.

Congress Awaiting Consolidation Plan

Independent Offices Bill for 1934 Fails to Appear as Expected.

Members of Congress yesterday awaited with interest receipt of the independent offices 1934 estimates from the Budget Bureau, originally slated for yesterday, but now definitely scheduled for the middle of the week.

Reports were current that the bill will give some intimation of the trend of the President's reorganization plan, inasmuch as many of the bureaus embraced in its scope are scheduled for realignment.

It was learned authoritatively, however, that the reorganization program in its entirety is still far from complete.

The Shipping Board, one of the agencies carried in the independent offices bill, is scheduled for abolition, The Post was informed. The Federal Power Commission, it was said, may later be transferred to the Department of Commerce. No disruption of the Interstate Commerce Commission is contemplated.

NEED OF RAIL CZAR IS AIRED AT PARLEY

of the week. Several parts were determined upon last night. More conferences will be held, Roper added:

"We have been engaged in considering drafts of railroad legislation and nothing but drafts tonight. We hope to bring these drafts into concrete and consolidated form for the action by the President by the latter part of the week."

Secretaries Woodin and Roper, Director of the Budget Douglas and Joseph B. Eastman, member of the Interstate Commerce Commission, carried the railroad plans to the White House desk.

Meanwhile the Interstate Commerce Commission itself yesterday decided to begin a searching inquiry into railroad freight charges, on April 24. Three commissioners were assigned to conduct the hearings here.

The presence of the Treasury Secretary and budget director in the railroad parley led to the belief that the Government is prepared to announce its intention to stand firmly behind the roads during the period of stress, provided, however, that immediate action is taken for a reorganization of the rail system.

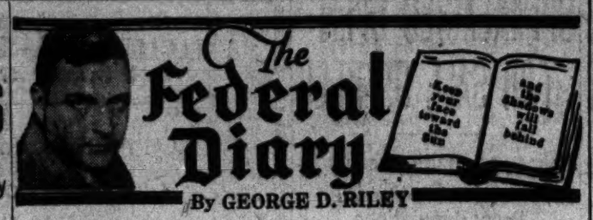
Freight Rate Hearings.

President Roosevelt plans to include in his railroad program the measures already approved by the House Interstate Commerce Committee for repeal of the recapture clause and for Federal regulation of railroad holding companies.

Interstate Commerce Commissioners Aitchison, Porter and Lee have been assigned to conduct the freight rate hearings.

The commission announced on March 31 that such an inquiry would be conducted. The decision followed arguments in which representatives of farm organizations and coal and lumber interests had contended that railroad freight rates should follow commodity prices downward and that in this way only could the railroads regain lost traffic.

The commission varied its usual procedure by waiving the filing of intervening petitions by persons seeking rate reductions. It also sent out a series of ten questions it wants answered by shippers and railroads.



ELSEWHERE in this issue is a story of yesterday's Supreme Court decision assuring Government employes' rights to patent ownership on inventions resulting from their own ideas, even though the work is done on Government time.

The case in question is that of the Government against Percival D. Lowell, 6413 Maple avenue, Chevy Chase, Md., airways division, Commerce, and Francis W. Dunmore, 3411 Rodman street northwest, Bureau of Standards.

P. D. Lowell.

F. W. Dunmore.

Speaking for his clients last night, John D. Brady, attorney, said:

"The case at issue relates to the energization of vacuum tubes in radio-receiving apparatus with means for eliminating the hum of alternating current.

"Messrs. Lowell and Dunmore conceived a method of eliminating the hum of alternating current applied to the receiving apparatus from the usual house lighting system. Prior to Lowell and Dunmore, it was necessary to use storage batteries and dry cells which were both expensive and inconvenient. The Supreme Court found, after receiving the record, that Lowell and Dunmore had completed the inventions December 10, 1921, long before radio broadcasting as we know it today.

"Messrs. Lowell and Dunmore immediately disclosed their invention to their associates at the Bureau of Standards, where both were employed at that time, and to their chief. The men proceeded to apply for patent protection for their invention, giving the Government free right and license to use their inventions but holding to themselves the residual right for the life of the patent.

"Promptly upon issue of the patent the men were plunged into lengthy and expensive interference proceedings where their invention was claimed by Westinghouse Electric & Manufacturing Co., the Wired Radio, Inc., and the Murad Radio Laboratories. After the taking of many volumes of testimony, the case was decided in favor of Lowell and Dunmore by the board of appeal, U. S. Patent Office.

"The Supreme Court found the procedure adopted by the men was correct and that so long as the Government was given the free right to use the invention without royalty that the inventors were entitled to enjoy all the remaining rights to the patent.

THIS morning the Messrs. Chrysemys Scabra will be at home to their new friends in Commerce Aquarium, both of them. That is to say the two-headed, two-faced newcomer from Orangeburg, S. C., will be at home.

If you told this terrapin to pull in its neck you should be specific, there are two. If you offered to feed this crawler you should be careful to offer the right kind of food, for one head might prefer bugs and the other beef heart. Fred G. Orsinger, aquarium director, has placed a special tank for the youngster in the center of the lobby, basement.

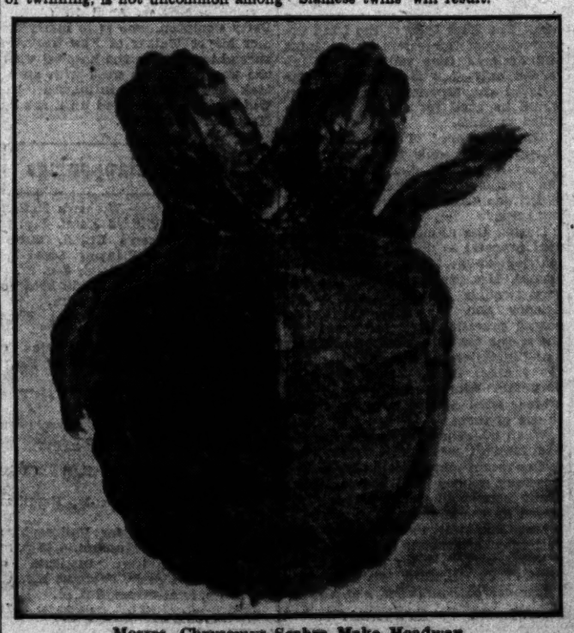
Dr. Samuel F. Hildebrand, fisheries, has this to say about the two-headed terrapin:

"The Bureau of Fisheries has received from Orangeburg, S. C., a specimen of the yellow-bellied terrapin, chrysemys scabra, having two perfectly formed heads of equal size. Duplicity apparently is limited to the heads and necks, although the upper shell anteriorly is rather abnormally broad. The animal is alive and active, and can walk rapidly. Full coordination of the muscles, however, is wanting, probably because the two heads and brains sometimes work at cross purposes. Headway is made by spurts, sometimes almost amounting to leaps, instead of a steady walk as in a normal animal.

"The terrapin is quite small, having a length of only 1¼ inches on the median line of the lower shell. It evidently is only several months old, having been hatched during the summer of 1932. It, of course, spent the winter in hibernation from which it probably had just emerged when it was found on a dam of a pond at Orangeburg, S. C., on March 28, 1933. The monster was lying on its back when found. It apparently is unable to right itself when in that position, because of the imperfect coordination of its muscles.

"Partial duplicity, which is a form of twinning, is not uncommon among turtles. It is unusual enough, however, always to attract attention. Various degrees of duplicity have been found, ranging from two conjoined heads to entirely separate individuals, that is, identical twins. The most common form of twinning among turtles is that in which two heads and necks are present, as in the specimen from South Carolina. As a rule, if the division is not complete, duplicity is farther advanced in the anterior parts of the animal than posteriorly.

"Twinning has its origin in the very early developmental stages. In some mysterious manner the germinal disc of the egg become disorganized. The extent of the disorganization determines whether two complete individuals, that is, identical twins, will be born or if some form or degree of 'Siamese twins' will result."



Messrs. Chrysemys Scabra Make Headway.

UNIFORM CAB ZONES PROPOSAL DEFEATED

P. U. C. Also Declines to Act on Minimum Rates Plan of Davis.

The Public Utilities Commission yesterday declined to act upon a proposal of Harry C. Davis, president of the Independent Taxicab Owners Association, operators of Diamond cabs, that uniform zones be proscribed and that a minimum zone rate be established. The petition was but another move on the part of proponents of the meter cab to induce Congress to lift the ban on the commission's meter requirement.

Maj. Gen. Mason M. Patrick, chairman of the commission, declared that the decision of the District Supreme Court on the appeal of the City and Bell Cab Corporations prevented the utilities body from fixing a minimum rate or proscribing zone boundaries as the court held that the zone system is discriminatory.

People's Counsel Richmond B. Keech recalled that it had long been his contention that the commission should establish uniform zone boundaries. He also has recently favored a slight increase in taxicab rates.

Gen. Patrick also intimated that the commission would make another fight in the present Congress to prevent attachment of a rider to the District appropriations act preventing the commission from enforcing the meter provision of its taxicab order.

FEDERAL INVENTORS AIDED BY U. S. COURT

questionably facilitate sale of patent rights, perfected by Government employes, to private concerns, inasmuch as the possibility of Government litigations are lessened.

A. S. McAllister, assistant director of the bureau, disclosed that the right of an employe to patent his invention has never been questioned, and there has been no effort to compel the inventor to assign them to the Government.

He pointed out that concerns in the market for inventions want them only if they can get a monopoly in their production or use, and the question has always been raised by rival concerns whether they have legal right to this, where an invention was produced on Government time.

He referred all inquiries to Mr. Holbrook. Mr. Holbrook said the situation brought about by the Supreme Court ruling might be corrected by legislation requiring employes engaged in work of this character to sign over their patent rights, or dedicate their invention to the public.

There has been "public dedication" of a number of outstanding inventions in the Government service, including the principle of "wired wireless."

Bureau officials were unable to estimate how many inventions were affected by the Supreme Court decision.

The decision was made in three cases covering important radio inventions licensed to the Dubilier Condenser Co. The suits were instituted by the Government in the Federal District Court for Delaware against the Dubilier Corporation to force it to give the Government all rights assigned it by Percival D. Lowell and Francis W. Dunmore on patents obtained by them on important inventions in radio while employes of the Bureau of Standards.

Justice Stone dissented from the decision, contending that the Government is entitled to the patents at issue. The employes in question, he contended, were hired to make certain scientific investigations which resulted in the inventions only through the use of Government materials and on Government time. Chief Justice Hughes and Justice Cardozo joined in his dissent.

ABOUT THE SHOW SHOPS

With NELSON B. BELL

ALTHOUGH this column, as a general thing, makes no pretense to being able to remember from one year to the next, it just happens that this spring a close grouping of pleasant recollections and a consequent vivid association of ideas render it easily possible to state without much fear of contradiction that the downtown, first-run picture houses are exercising an increased measure of caution in planning their expenditures, the first touch of hot weather is a little later in arriving this April than last and there will be a few more attendants at the opening game of the baseball season tomorrow than was the case a year ago.

LILYAN TASHMAN

Last year at this time, you will recall, Washington was enjoying an unbroken procession of screen stars across its stages that continued practically throughout the month of April. It was begun by Jaen Harlow, who made a week of personal appearances at the Palace Theater, beginning April 1, with Bert Frohman acting as m. c., for a stage show that starred Don Barclay and featured Robert Pitkin, who had been seen a short time previously as Ko-Ko to Mme. Ernestine Schumann-Heink's Katisha in Gilbert and Sullivan's "The Mikado," at the Belasco.

Then in quick succession came Lilyan Tashman, Dorothy Mackaill and Victor McLaglen and Charlie Judels, to the Rialto; Fannie Hurst to RKO-Keith's for the premiere of her "Symphony of Six Million," and so forth and so on.

The breakfast tendered Miss Harlow and the press by the Loew management at the Mayflower on the Sunday morning of her local engagement was on just such a day as yesterday—fair and warm, so that a late afternoon drive to Mount Vernon, following the festivities, was still uncomfortably hot, due at least in part, no doubt, to the sun!

Miss Tashman's breakfast, under the auspices of Universal, was at the Shoreham on the opening day of the baseball season. Practically all of the members of the Fourth Estate who turned out in honor of Miss Tashman had tickets to the game tucked away in inside pockets, but most of them, instead of using them, succumbed to the lure of continuing so charming a party out at the Wisconsin avenue apartment of the then managing director of the Rialto, Mr. Ralph Ravenscroft, where the game went into many extra innings and was not even called on account of darkness!

Incidentally, if the Akron disaster had occurred one year earlier than it did, Mr. McLaglen, when he arrived in town, would have had to content himself with an interview on good old terra firma instead of up in that crazy blimp that flew up here from Miami just about the time he blew in from the Coast—and that he tried to pilot when it was at the highest altitude it reached that giddy afternoon!

A memorandum from Maj. P. G. Munson, attached to the adjutant general's office of the War Department, chairman of the local committee in charge of the event, is self-explanatory:

"The Mask and Wig Club of the University of Pennsylvania, after a three-years' absence is bringing its forty-fifth annual production to the Belasco Theater for one performance on the night of Friday, April 28.

"This year's production is entitled, very fittingly, 'Out of the Blues,' and is as elaborate and colorful as its predecessors. 'Out of the Blues,' of which the subtitle is 'A Puritanical New Deal in Two Shuffles,' is said to involve a new variation of 'The Scarlet Letter' and 'Camille,' to say nothing of the 'New Deal.'

"Ticket arrangements will be shortly announced."

This will come as welcome news not only to the alumni of the U. of Pa., but to the general theatergoing public, as well, who remember the Mask and Wig productions as gay entertainments comparing favorably with many of the best of the offerings of the professional touring road companies.

This desk gratefully acknowledges receipt from Mr. Ray Henderson, of her executive staff, of a handsome brochure bearing the title of "Katharine Cornell: A Gallery of Stage Portraits," containing a brief history of the actress' career, together with 15 illustrations, including photographs of her in her chief roles, which has just been published.

Among the pictures are Miss Cornell as Jo, in "Little Women;" Sydney Fairfield, in "A Bill of Divorcement;" Juliet, in "Will Shakespeare;" Henriette, in "Casanova;" the title role in "Candida;" Iris March, in "The Green Hat;" Leslie Crosbie, in "The Letter;" Ellen Olenska, in "The Age of Innocence;" Madeleine Carey, in "Dishonored Lady;" Elizabeth Barrett, in "The Barretts of Wimpole Street;" Lucrece, and Elsa Brandt, in "Alien Corn."

In a concerted and practical effort to combat the lethargy being exhibited during the period of depression by many of the regular theatrical producers, the board of directors of the Friars Club in New York announce that Charles Mosconi has been selected to serve as director of the newly formed Friars Stock Company, which will inaugurate a series of regular semimonthly productions to be given in the Monastery of the club on West Forty-eighth street, New York.

It will be the purpose of this well-known organization to bring out new acting talent, plays by new as well as established authors, and otherwise to foster a wholesome and needed growth in the theater.

The first of these new-fangled "Frolics," under the stock company idea, will take place Saturday night, April 22.

In case you have been wondering what his real name may be, it may not be too late to disclose that it is Mr. Cabell CaHoway who is leading his red-hot Cotton Club Orchestra as headline attraction at the Earle this week. The first name was conveniently contracted to "Cab" by schoolmates in Baltimore, where he was graduated from Douglas High School in 1927. He subsequently studied law at Crane College in Chicago, but only for two semesters, at the end of which he deserted Blackstone and Kent because it was interfering with his career as an entertainer in clubs, floor shows and theaters.

A group of entertainers from the Winthrop-Brown Studios are putting on a show for the disabled veterans at Walter Reed Hospital this afternoon, under the auspices of the Rea Chapter, Disabled American Veterans.

Today is the day "42nd Street," the sensationally successful Warner musical, begins its two-day return engagement at the Tivoli Theater, Fourteenth street and Park road—an honor seldom accorded even the best of films.

Pardon, but there is some foam still sticking to your mustache!

NEW CINEMA OFFERINGS

COLUMBIA

"THE VAMPIRE BAT." Majestic picturization of a story by Edward T. Lowe, featuring Lionel Atwill, Fay Wray, Melvin Douglas and Lionel Belmore. Directed by Frank Strayer. Reviewed Monday evening by W. A. Whitney.

"Dracula" redivivus—with the "medical science" of "Doctor X" tossed in for good measure; that is, "The Vampire Bat," and if that is not enough, there is, too, some of the atmosphere of "Frankenstein" and some of the theory of the "Island of Lost Souls."

But, strange as it may seem, this picture is not what could properly be termed a horror picture, notwithstanding the fact that Author Lowe's sources are quite obvious. But rather, in its place, "The Vampire Bat" is an interesting melodramatic mystery, replete with eerie settings and strange legends, combining to produce a concatenation of events that is not only logical, but highly satisfying to an audience tense from the stirring preceding episodes.

To say too much—perhaps that amount has already been said—would be to spoil an interesting cinematic diversion, but to say this might not be entirely out of place: Lionel Atwill, doctor and scientist; Fay Wray, the doctor's assistant, who is beloved by Melvin Douglas, police inspector; Lionel Belmore, the burgomeister; Dwight Frye, the village idiot; Maude Eburne, the aunt who has all the diseases she reads about, and George E. Stone, night watchman, turn in highly commendable performances.

Picturizing somewhat the same philosophy as Stuart Chase embodied in his "Mexico," "Where Money Is Not God," is the first of a series of travelogues on that country. The opening release takes in Monterey and Tampico as well as shots of the native folk, scenes of natural beauty, and the ruins of Chichin-Itza and other examples of the lost Mayan civilization.

The other subsidiaries are "Mickey's Race," a Mickey McGuire comedy, and the Paramount News.

World Drug Accord Is Ratified for July 10

(Associated Press.)

The State Department last night announced that an international convention for limitation of narcotics manufacture had been ratified by the required number of nations and would go into effect July 10, 1933.

The announcement said 20 governments, including the United States, have ratified and 9 others have acceded to the convention and that at least 7 other governments are expected to take a similar step by April 18, the date by which under its terms it must have been agreed to by 25 nations in order to become effective.

THE THEATER LAST NIGHT

GAYETY

"BIG BLACK AND WHITE REVIEW." Empire Burlesque Circuit's "Bathing Beauties," featuring Clyde Bates, Jack Hunt, Jack Rosen, Virginia Jones, Tangara, Jean Bodine and Sally Van, combined with the Drake & Walker colored revue, featuring the Three Suns, Henry Drake, Ethel Walker, Bill and Clifford Drake, Dina Scott, Phil Gomez, Tina Stewart, Alberta Williams and the Cyclonic Jazz Band. Reviewed Monday night.

On the theory, no doubt, that a lot of condiment goes well with beer Jimmy Lake this week offers a duplex divertissement containing double doses of salty comedy, peppery dances and a generous portion of pulchritudinous specialists whose individual contributions to the bountiful bill-of-fare are full of ginger, paprika and other spicy qualities.

The first, or white, half of the bargain double-bill, were it not blanketed under the convenient title of "Black and White Revue," would be Clyde Bates' "Bathing Beauties," with Bates ladling out the bulk of the comedy, assisted by Jack Hunt and Jack Rosen. Those veterans get back to burlesque's first principles, setting rowdy comedy gags over against sentimental appeals to an audience's easy emotions—as in the tearful recitation before the Tomb of the Unknown Soldier—thus cashing in on all the surface susceptibilities the Gayety can hold at one time. Shrewd business, swell lowbrow entertainment, this, with Stanley Montfort and Franklyn B. Hopkins tuning in with some better-than-usual singing and Ruby Lang dittoing for the feminine contingent.

But those "specialists in display" are the real berries of the evening. That touch-and-go temptress, Tangara, with her shivering chassis; Jean Bodine, as brunette as a raven's wing and just as sleek; Sally Van, a tenuous blonde for contrast, and the most gorgeous and abundant of all the good Dr. Lake's voluptuous importations, Virginia Jones, comprise a group that is all the spring tonic anybody needs—especially the provocative Miss Jones.

The second, or sepia, half of the performance is dedicated to speed, jazz and a carnival of tap dancing by a clever and willing cast of colored artists who give their hour in the spotlight everything they've got—which is plenty. Even the chorus girls do a pick-out number that reveals an extraordinary versatility where it is, perhaps, to be least expected!

A capacity house last night got a big money's worth and demonstrated that they knew it by the volume and insistence of their applause.

JAPAN BEGINS DRIVE BEYOND GREAT WALL

Tokyo Claims Move Purely Local to End Menace to Jehol Passes.

Tokyo, April 10 (A.P.).—A Japanese offensive was started today south of the Great Wall of China to put an end to Chinese counter-attacks on the passes through the wall, the Rengo (Japanese) news agency reported from Changchun.

Military headquarters at Changchun said the "persistently hostile attitude of Chinese forces" made the operation necessary. In Tokyo the war office announced that the offensive was a purely local affair.

It was absurd, a war office spokesman said, to believe that the Japanese army would push on to Peiping and Tientsin, the great cities of the international treaty zone to the south of the wall.

Aerial Bombings Reported.

In their offensive the Japanese were assisting the infantry with planes which were reported to be bombing the Chinese.

Although the war department said the operations would be localized, at Changchun it was asserted the future rested with the Chinese.

The offensive centered at Lengkow, a pass north of Kein-Changying. The attack was made there by a regiment of the brigade of Maj. Gen. Yoshiaki Takata, and a detachment from the infantry brigade commanded by Maj. Gen. Heijiro Hattori.

About 50,000 Chinese troops were concentrated in that region along the central section of the southern border of Jehol Province. The Japanese admitted that hitherto Lengkow had been in the hands of the Chinese.

Seaport Is Threatened.

Shanhaikwan, China, April 10 (A.P.).—The Chinese seaport of Chinwangtao was threatened again today by volunteer troops of the new state of Manchukuo, Japanese sources reported.

The Chinese, it was admitted, succeeded in expelling native Manchukuo soldiers under Gen. Ting Chiang from Haiyang, north of Chinwangtao. But it was reported that Manchukuo regulars reinforced Gen. Ting and reoccupied Haiyang, later pressing on toward Chinwangtao.

Although the Japanese war office has announced that the advance is not being made under Japanese direction, a Rengo (Japanese) News Agency dispatch said that Japanese reinforcements were being sent to aid Gen. Ting from Shihmenchai.

sonality of the vice chancellor from Berlin, himself a leading Catholic in the new Fascist regime in Germany, as well as the possibilities which may develop through future relations between the Holy See and the Nazis.

With such an auspicious, although as yet unofficial, expression of approval, the negotiations looking to a new concordat between the Holy See and Germany proceeded.

The Pope was known to favor such a concordat, as long as the government under Chancellor Adolf Hitler, in Germany, proceeds within certain bounds in its civil campaign against Communism, a doctrine which repudiates the Church.

Von Papen was joined late today by Capt. Wilhelm Hermann Goering, Hitlerite minister without portfolio and one of the most powerful men in the Fascist administration, who is to be present during the forthcoming parleys.

Goering was met at the Centocelle Airport on the outskirts of Rome by Italo Balbo, air minister, and other officials.

Mystery Woman in Case.

The "white paper" also charges that the Soviet authorities ordered a Russian woman to persuade Monkhouse to engage in secret activities, but that this "woman of mystery" refused.

It was indicated in the document that one of the central figures in the forthcoming trial, set for Thursday, will be a Mme. Kutosova, secretary for the company in Moscow. She is said to have confronted Thornton in the presence of the Soviet examiners and declared he drew 50,000 roubles (nominally about $25,000) from the British Consulate for the purposes of military espionage.

Charge d'Affaires Walter Strang declared, however, that Mme. Kutosova was "in a pitiable state of terror, and reeled off her accusations mechanically, like the other Russians with whom Thornton was confronted."

Man, Amnesia Victim, Mystery at Hospital

Three telephone calls to Gallinger Hospital yesterday from residents of Washington who have missing relatives failed to shed any light on the identity of a man about 60 years old who walked into police headquarters Sunday and asked assistance in identifying himself.

Meanwhile local police were in communication with Cleveland, Ohio, authorities, as the only mark of identification was the man's coat bearing a Cleveland store label. He told physicians he thought his first name was William. He weighs 183 pounds and is 5 feet 9½ inches tall. Dr. Joseph L. Gilbert said he thought the man was suffering from amnesia.

NEW SCHOOL VOTED IN FAIRFAX COUNTY

Six-Room and Auditorium Building at Groveton to Cost $24,500.

The school board of Fairfax County, Va., yesterday afternoon decided to erect an elementary school building at Groveton, on the Washington-Richmond highway about 3 miles south of Alexandria. The action was taken following an inspection of many sites in Mount Vernon Magisterial District earlier in the day by the entire board.

The site chosen is north of and adjacent to the rear of the playground of the present Groveton school. Yesterday's decision brings to a climax the differences between the board and the citizens of the southern section of the district, who opposed the present Groveton site because it was located on a main highway. The new site for the six-room and auditorium school center of Mount Vernon district is on a side street about 300 feet from the highway. The additional ground necessary for the new building will be purchased from W. F. P. Reid, chairman of the county board of supervisors, at a purchase price said to be $400. The area of the new school grounds will be approximately 3½ acres.

The new building will cost approximately $24,500 and be financed one-third by the county and the balance by a loan from the State Literary Fund, repayable by special school levies in Mount Vernon District over a period of 15 years. The county's share will be made up by a contribution of $1,800 from the Groveton Community Club; $1,000 from the sale of abandoned school property in that district; a $1,000 balance in the district's special levy left over from the Franconia School; $3,000 temporary loan to be paid in December and $3,000 to be secured by a loan on the present Groveton school building and grounds.

The board yesterday confirmed the sale of right of ways in front of three schools on the Washington-Richmond highway, to the State Highway Commission at a price of $400. This money is to be used to purchase the additional ground for the new Groveton School.

Trustees Vernon M. Lynch, of Falls Church District, and Mrs. E. L. Finks, of Mount Vernon, together with Divisional Supt. W. T. Woodson were appointed as a committee with power to act, to secure plans for the new building and to finance and supervise its construction. It is said that work on the new building will start as soon as plans have been received from the State architect and bids obtained. It will be completed as soon as school opens next September, and will accommodate the school children that now are going to the Lee-Jackson School in Falls Church District.

WESTCOTT NURSERY RECEIVERS CHOSEN

Appointed After Joint Plea of Cherrydale and Georgetown Banks.

On the joint petition of the Peoples State Bank of Cherrydale, Va., and the Potomac Savings Bank of Georgetown, Judge Walter T. McCarthy yesterday placed the Westcott Nursery Co., of Falls Church, Va., into a receivership. The court's decree named B. Agee Bowles, vice president of the Potomac Savings Bank, and Clarence R. Ahalt, Arlington County attorney, coreceivers, and ordered them to manage and conserve the assets of the nursery company for the benefit of the creditors. Both receivers must post bonds of $20,000 within 60 days.

The petition for a receivership set forth that Milton R. Westcott and Walter T. Westcott, operating as the Westcott Nursery Co. of Falls Church, have overdue obligations to the People's State Bank totaling $54,505.47 and obligations to the Potomac Savings Bank amounting to $18,000, secured by trust deeds on part of the 521 acres and the nursery stock thereon. The petition also expressed the belief that the company owes more than $130,000 and stated that owing to present business conditions the banks despaired of their securities.

The petition further stated that the company has growing stock on which it hopes to realize enough to pay all claims, but it was explained that the stock was in such condition that it can not be sold in bulk. It was therefore asked that receivers be named to take charge of the assets.

The Westcott Nursery Co. has been in operation in Fairfax County for many years. It has handled many contracts for the Government, specializing in the moving of historic trees.

GRIEVING FOR WIFE, SAWYER KILLS SELF

Former Justice of Peace in Silver Spring First Bids Friends Good-By.

After several months of brooding over the death of his wife, John L. H. Sawyer, well-known Silver Spring resident and former justice of the peace, yesterday bade good-by to his friends and repaired to the basement of the Montgomery County Building at Silver Spring, where he shot and killed himself.

Judge Sawyer, who was 70 years old, had been unable to overcome his grief at the death of his wife, Mrs. Nellie Sawyer, several months ago, and had told several friends in the last few days that he soon would join her. He went to the barber shop yesterday and after having his hair cut, told the barber this would be the last time he would cut his hair. He then went to the County Building. Stopping in the County Police Substation in the building, he shook hands with Sergt. Guy L. Jones, an old friend. Removing his hat and coat he carefully placed them on a desk and walked downstairs to the basement washroom.

Hardly a moment later, Sergt. Jones and Justice of the Peace David Mears heard a shot and ran to the washroom, where they found Judge Sawyer lying on the floor, a .32-caliber pistol clenched in his hand and a wound in his head. Dr. Isadore Rod, of Silver Spring, pronounced him dead. The body was removed to the Silver Spring funeral home of Warner E. Pumphrey. Funeral arrangements had not been completed last night.

Judge Sawyer was a native of Wales but came to this country still a young man. He had lived in Vermont and came to Washington about 30 years ago to accept a position as policeman, from which he was retired several years later on disability. He has been an employe of the United States Treasury Department for many years and was scheduled to be retired within a few months. He was a justice of the peace for Silver Spring for about fifteen years, until about five years ago, when he resigned. He was a veteran of the Spanish-American War and a Democrat. He is survived by a niece, Mrs. Thomas Devlin, who resided with him on Georgia avenue, near East West highway.

A DANGEROUS ROAD.

Secretary of State Hull outlines a grand vision of increasing foreign trade amounting to such proportions as to put the United States on the high road to economic recovery. He draws a vivid picture of surplus farm products, automobiles, machinery, copper, coal, oil and similar commodities moving abroad. Better prices for the farmer, rehabilitation of manufacturing and mining, and reemployment of the millions who are now jobless are all a part of the vision. It is a glamorous picture intended to reinspire the American people with hope and enthusiasm. But some important details are left out.

The new Secretary of State is not so naive as to believe that this great stimulus to American export trade can be applied without opening the American market to foreign goods. A lowering of the American tariff is an integral part of his plan. But Mr. Hull does not pay much attention to the inflow of foreign commodities that would immediately follow the application of his international policy. To realize the vision of a new export trade, amounting to some $8,000,000,000, it is necessary to calculate the effect of a new import trade of huge proportions. It is Mr. Hull's plan to purchase new export markets by selling part of the American market.

Of what will the imports consist? They can not be coffee, tea, silk, rubber and other non-competitive products, for most of these are free of duty already. Foreign interests are at liberty to ship to American ports all of this type of merchandise that the market will absorb. For the most part the billions worth of new imports must displace commodities that are now grown or mined or manufactured for the market by American workingmen.

If the United States is going to embark upon such an experiment, it ought not to do so blindly. It may be difficult for the average man to understand what advantages Americans as a whole would gain from a scheme which would close the American market to domestic output.

Secretary Hull's theory of the world as a great economic unit is a myth. The world is no more an economic unit than it is a political unit. Wages in Japan, for example, are about one-sixth to one-tenth of what they are in the United States. Yet Japanese workmen are capable and efficient. Japan is making tremendous gains in export trade because her depreciated currency makes labor and raw materials cheap. Under present conditions a scaling down of tariff barriers would put Japan in the most advantageous economic position of any nation in the world. Unemployment would increase in the United States. Manufacturing would be transferred to countries paying cheap wages.

It is rather strange that the Secretary of State should announce the abolition of economic nationalism at the very moment when Congress is rushing to completion a farm relief measure that virtually doubles the agricultural tariff and adds several important farm products to the dutiable list. How does Secretary Hull reconcile his new policy with this bill?

The relation of American industry to the world market is not much different than the relation of agriculture to the same market. It is incredible that Congress would adopt a policy of superprotection for agriculture and expose manufacturing industries to cut-throat competition with foreign pauper labor. The effect of such a policy would be to destroy industries and turn the United States back toward its former status as an agricultural nation. No greater economic calamity could befall America.

Secretary Hull's plan of economic internationalism is essentially a dream. It is comparable to Woodrow Wilson's dream of the League of Nations. In this world of varying economic conditions, of surplus labor and of conflicting national ambitions, it is not practical. For a country in the economic position of the United States it forebodes disappointment, if not disaster.

TENNESSEE VALLEY.

In some respects President Roosevelt's Tennessee Valley proposal is the most startling of the succession of plans that have emanated from the White House since March 4. Seemingly anything that bears the stamp of executive approval can be put through Congress in double-quick time. Therefore the Tennessee Valley proposal may be transformed into law within a few days, in spite of its possible shock to Federal credit and the desirability of taking safeguards that might save the Government against staggering losses hereafter.

The scope of the Tennessee Valley project is enormous. It contemplates reconstruction of the Muscle Shoals plant to enable it to make fertilizer cheaply; extension of power resources, including construction of Cove Creek dam; measures for dealing with soil erosion, flood control, forestation, withdrawal of inferior lands from agriculture, and "distribution and diversification of industry."

The agency which is to make this daring plunge into state socialism is to be the "Tennessee Valley Authority," a corporation clothed with governmental powers but possessed of the flexibility and initiative of a private enterprise. Doubtless it is contemplated that this authority will make bargains with the States within whose areas these developments are to be made.

In the case of Boulder Dam, the United States furnishes $200,000,000 or more, with a more or less uncertain arrangement providing for repayment by the sale of power. The people of the entire country are paying for Boulder Dam. They will be asked to pay for the Tennessee Valley development. President Roosevelt's theory is that the United States has reached the stage where "national planning" is necessary for the general welfare. If the Tennessee Valley experiment should be successful, the same plan will be applied to other great territorial units. If it should be a failure—well, nothing is said about failure. Apparently there is no such word as failure in the new national lexicon.

The method of financing this great project will deeply interest the people of the United States, who now see one project after another materializing into law, calling for expenditures running into billions. At the same time, it is held that the credit of the Government will be sustained by the balancing of the budget. This balance is to be accomplished by separating the big items requiring an increase of the public debt, and eliminating them from the routine budget, which is then balanced by pruning veterans' compensation, Federal pay cuts, and savings from bureau mergers, &c.

The ordinary expenses of the Government are to be balanced by savings, and the public debt is to be increased to take care of forest work, Tennessee Valley development, gratuities to the States, &c.

The question arises, How much can the Government run into fresh debt without impairing its credit and precipitating a crash?

During the war the United States increased its debt by $20,000,000,000 or more. At one period its bonds were at a heavy discount. By rigorous reduction methods under Secretary Mellon the debt was reduced nearly $10,000,000,000 when the depression came. The public debt has increased about $3,000,000,000 since 1930. Present proposals will add several billions more.

The safety of the Nation rests now upon national credit. There is no other credit. The banking situation is very unsatisfactory. Business is still unable to obtain accommodations from the banks. A sudden loss of confidence in Government credit, resulting from extraordinary borrowings, is the last calamity that American industry and business could suffer.

RAILROAD CONSOLIDATION.

Reports that President Roosevelt has given up railroad consolidation as a means of rescuing the carriers from their plight are probably unfounded. It seems probable that these reports originated with the foes of railway economy rather than with the President. Regrouping of the carriers with a view to eliminating waste and putting them on a sound financial basis is probably the only means of extending substantial relief to the railroads without a vast outlay of Federal money.

It would be impossible, of course, to carry out an extensive consolidation plan immediately. A project of this magnitude may require years for consummation. But that does not make it less desirable. Immense savings may be effected in this way. Frederick H. Prince, who has prepared a comprehensive consolidation plan at the invitation of President Roosevelt, estimates that $743,000,000 per year could be saved in operation costs on the basis of 1932 traffic. Such economies last year would have turned a $247,245,000 deficit into a net income of nearly $500,000,000 for the class 1 carriers.

It is taken for granted that Congress will repeal the provision under which the Government undertakes to recapture one-half of the railroads' "excess" earnings, and that a new formula for determining freight rates will be evolved. Adjustments in capital structures may be expected. Regulation of competing agencies is also in the agenda. But these measures will not correct the fundamental weakness of the railroads. A sweeping program of regrouping and concentration of through traffic seems to be essential.

The report of the National Transportation Committee advocated early regional consolidation, "looking eventually to a single national system with regional divisions and the elimination of all excess and obsolete lines and equipment." The railroads must be brought into a system that will efficiently serve the needs of the country. It has been demonstrated that the present set-up is not conducive to either efficiency or economy. During the depression industry has taken drastic steps to pare down its expenditures and improve its competitive position. Government regulation has prevented the railroads from doing likewise. The Government has, therefore, acquired a responsibility to aid the carriers in making the widespread adjustments that are necessary to put them on a sound economic basis.

It is essential that the interests of railway employes be considered. Some arrangements ought to be made to assist railway workers who are displaced until they can be absorbed in other enterprises. But to delay or abandon this vital program of adjustments merely on the ground that the services of some employes would be rendered useless would be inexcusable. If that theory had been followed, American freight would still be hauled by wagons and mules.

Unemployment must not be allowed to stand in the way of transportation progress. If the railroads are more efficiently organized, they will be able to haul freight cheaper, business will be stimulated and millions of new jobs will be created in other fields. The railroads themselves will then need more men to handle increased traffic. Consolidation can go forward with an understanding that aid will be given to displaced workers, but the welfare of the Nation and not the railway brotherhoods will doubtless be the guiding motive in the railroad program offered by the administration.

"Take away your market from your people and give it to us," is the grand chorus which President Roosevelt is about to hear from the gifted songsters of other lands.

Hoarders turned in $225,000,000 during March. They will be turned in themselves on May 1 if they don't come through with the rest.

The cherry blossoms are out, the Griffs begin the season this week, and Soviet Russia calls for a world revolution. Spring is here.

"WEAK SISTER OF THE STATES"

From the Arkansas Democrat.

Our sweet sister of journalism, the Wall Street Journal, is angry with us again, and insists upon making nasty faces at us over the back fence. The darling of the Mitchells, the Harrimans, et al., tells its readers that Arkansas is back at her old tricks of repudiating her honest debts, thereby leaving all honest creditors out in the bitter cold.

"Whatever else may be said of Arkansas and her high-handed conversion of all outstanding bonds, notes and what-not into long-term 3's," says the Journal, "it must be admitted that the State is consistent in this recurrent disregard of the moral rights of bondholders. Moral rights, advisedly; apparently the situation allows no legal rights."

After pointing out that none save other States can sue Arkansas, the New York journal asks this question: "But once the verdict is rendered against Arkansas, what then? Who will force the legislature to appropriate the funds? * * * The Supreme Court of the United States once declared its power or that of Congress to enforce a decree involving debt between States, but the declaration ended the matter."

The Journal skyrocket bursts into this shower of literary stars as it reaches its conclusion, also its zenith: "The Arkansas constitution orders provision for payment of all 'just and legal debts of the State.' Just? Legal? Who shall decide? Why, Arkansas. Her creditors are not even to be consulted."

The holy writ of the money changers suffers from the same ailment which affects them—an attack of "6-per-cent-and-the-debtor-be-damned." Always a little slow, the Journal has not found that we have a depression. Never infallible in its accuracy, it says our creditors have not been consulted. The Journal should subscribe for some good newspaper, and should get its information from some disinterested person. We won't quarrel over trivial things.

The editor, in his rage, is a bit inconsistent. He picks Arkansas out of 48 States as a horrible example, principally because he, like so many of his New York brothers, knows less about this State than about their own—if that be possible. He knows that more debts are in default today than at any time in the history of man, yet he has a literary spasm over the fact we have attempted to protect our creditors, rather than rob them, by offering to refund our debts.

Arkansas today is in the same fix as a host of the Journal's admirers—the big banks—but the depression hit her twice, or thrice as hard as it did Wall street, and the R. F. C. hasn't been nearly so generous with her.

Up the Tree Again.

POST HASTE.

The idea must not get abroad that the Tennessee Valley Authority is a sort of principality within a dictatorship.

Former Ambassador Jimmy Gerard started one war from Germany, so he picks the Argentine this time.

A Black optimist is one who can believe with the senator that factories will cut hours to 30 a week and still pay the same wages.

Andorra youths got the angora of the governing council without even pulling a whisker.

Look for the silver lining. You might be young Rockefeller, who has just discovered that the Government wants to overcharge him $824,000 on his income tax.

Selection of an Eastman for railroad czar would probably seem like sectional favoritism to the West.

Miniature golf courses are being turned into beer gardens, but wagers will no longer be won on low scores.

By sending Von Papen to Rome to consult the Fascist father Hitler probably saved that imitation mustache.

The younger generation are barred from beer, but they probably wouldn't relish it without a pinch of danger—a police pinch.

Reports from Detroit indicate that Mayor Don Francisco Murpheyo is consuming spinach and philopenas in preparation for his insular post.

You can speculate without much loss of time on what would have happened to the executive program if it had all been dumped on Congress in one lump.

Diogenes is still looking for a man who can honestly say he can tell from the taste that it isn't the same brew he could buy legally a week ago.

It was a nice, nonpartisan gesture for the President to spend his first holiday at the old Hoover camp.

The reciprocal tariff ship may be Hull-down on the horizon, but it is headed this way.

The movie industry has been halted in Germany. It seems the rapid fire cameras couldn't keep up with Hitler's backsteps.

"Farm and mortgage financing, bank guarantees, State relief and unemployment funds will be followed by a plan for public works to cost two or three billion dollars." Pretty close figuring to get within a billion when it comes to outgo.

Arrangements might be made to have copies of bills sent to congressmen, following executive signature, so that they could become familiar with their provisions; or do they read the newspapers?

The first National Park Club, with a limited membership of 25,000, apparently is trying to be too exclusive and, like many other organizations these days, will have to liberalize the rules.

DETERMINATION.

While still the home we love remains
Past proof against the snows and rains
And they are near
Who are so dear
I'll not be one who much complains.

While still the little garden grows,
With here and there a budding rose
And round about
The children shout,
I'll never magnify my woes.

While still our friends are constant, true,
And I have strength my tasks to do,
While we can bear
Our weight of care,
I'll let what's past slip out of view.

If the Law Would Be Respected, Let It Make Itself Respectable
By ROBERT QUILLEN

THE law has become a tyrant. It grants immunity to the rich and powerful and persecutes the weak and the poor. It encourages crime to obtain evidence against the criminal. It violates the Constitution to enforce a statute. It tortures witnesses to obtain evidence.

Unrebuked abuse of power has obtained the sanction of custom, with the result that innocent men and women now dread the law and its courts more than criminals do.

Consider the plight of the witness.

Again and again you read in the public prints that some well-meaning citizen, having reported a crime, is held in jail as a material witness.

That doesn't happen to rich men. It happens only to nobodies who are too poor to furnish bail.

And because it happens, the innocent who are wise flee from a scene of crime as the guilty do. They keep their secret to avoid being treated as criminals. And thus the law defeats itself and by its unfairness estranges those who would be allies.

Observe the witness in court. He is afraid. He has done no wrong, but he feels that he is helpless among enemies.

"Is it true that you once served a jail sentence for perjury?" asks the lawyer. "Is it true that you were fired for stealing? Is it true that you forged your employer's name on a check?"

The lawyer knows these things are not true. He is trying to discredit the witness. Perhaps the other lawyer objects to these questions and the objection is sustained. No matter. The point is made. Insults have made the desired impression on the jury.

The press reports without bias that the witness denied this and denied that, but the harm is done. The fact that he was forced to deny these things causes some suspicion of his guilt.

The witness is a nobody to the world, but he is somebody to his family and his friends. He is shamed before the only people whose good opinion matters to him.

It is a rare court and a rare case that witnesses no unfairness or flagrant discourtesy to a witness. Unless all of the witnesses have wealth and influence.

The forgotten man never knows when he will be a witness. If the new deal would give him tardy justice, let it protect him from tyranny in the courts that exist to safeguard his rights.

POLITICAL COMMENT

Topeka Capital.

Congress will give President Roosevelt his farm bill, but its reluctance to yield to his wishes is growing. This is natural, since the President has assumed a larger part than any of his predecessors in legislative functions. Congress has submitted, owing to the wholly abnormal condition existing, but it is jealous of its own prerogatives and will assert them sooner or later. The President has shown political sagacity of a high order in pressing his program unremittingly while he has the whip hand. His first month makes a record of unprecedented and unrivaled accomplishment. If his administration should come to an end now it would stand out preeminently, assured of fame and glory.

Yet the President's troubles are breeding. The Senate has no sort of faith in the farm bill, and if its expectations and those probably of the country are realized it will be a blow to his prestige of success. It is difficult to dispute the arguments of many men of business experience, backed by some economists, that the bill is calculated to prolong rather than break the depression.

Style Cramped.
Macon Telegraph.

Another diverting feature of the situation is, it has suddenly dawned upon the congressional lobbyist that his job isn't what it used to be, either.

Jobless Still Ride.
Philadelphia Bulletin.

It's going to be tough on the historians of the future to explain the automobile traffic and gasoline sales of the fourth year of depression.

Drugstore Jam.
Detroit News.

What with jig saws and beer by the carton, a pharmacist will need quite a large store to keep a baked ham, too.

Railroad Reform.
Minneapolis Journal.

Although the Roosevelt plan for reorganizing the railroads has not yet been announced, and is no doubt still in the formative stage, it seems fairly certain that it will provide for some sort of practical consolidation under Government authority.

One of the specific evils aimed at is the duplication of service, which costs the railroads many millions of dollars every year. So the plan is expected to provide for the common use of terminals and trackage wherever desirable.

The Nature of Fascism.
Cincinnati Enquirer.

Successive changes in Germany permit a steadily clearer realization that the Hitler regime is, in fact, fascism in its unadulterated form. Fascism is the concentration of political power in the hands of a few dictators, and the regimentation of political, social, economic and religious life into the pattern of absolute supremacy of the State.

Thus it is the negation of individual freedom, the abolition of civil rights and self-government. It involves the limitation of economic freedom to bounds approved by the political state. It reshapes the thinking of the citizens to a pattern of disciplined subservience to dictatorship, not only in political life, but in their whole existence.

On a Nonintoxicant?
Iroquois (S. Dak.) Chief.

It is a delightful coincidence that the banks and the breweries are opening about the same time. We can now draw our money out of the banks, buy beer and return to prosperity. Anyway, if we buy and drink enough beer we will feel prosperous.

LETTERS TO THE EDITOR

Part of the Senate in Treaty-Making Should Be Made Clear to Foreign Negotiators.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It seems to a plain citizen that, in the settlement of international questions of first importance, special care should be taken to make other governments understand that treaties with the United States can be made only "by and with the advice and consent of the Senate * * * provided, two-thirds of the senators present concur." It is very important that foreign diplomats be enlightened, also, as to how extremely jealous the Senate really is in regard to its foreign relations trust.

The Constitution framers were wise in their conclusion that the welfare of government of the people could not be properly promoted in the international field solely by the independent authority of a Chief Executive. The disadvantage resulting from indifference to the international safeguard provided by the framers is illustrated by the Wilson foreign policy, the attempted developement of which still hangs fire in the Senate.

In this connection our State Department seems to have been negligent. Maybe it is not always as careful as it should be to indicate the Constitutional check by which its proposals may fall short of finality. Perhaps it may yet take the trouble to teach other nations that the undemocratic diplomatic adjustments by which the peoples of Europe have always been held in a precarious balance between war and peace are repugnant to the American people and out-of-date under our Constitution. Thus our dealings with the outside world would be much simplified, if not safer.

FEDERALIST.

Thinks Thirty-Hour Work Week Will Restore Employment and Prosperity.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: It is with great pleasure that we hail the action taken on March 30 by the United States Senate favoring a five-day work week and six-hour day. This is the greatest progressive movement toward prosperity yet made. Let us all hope and pray that it meets with success in passing legislative bodies and receives the approval of the Supreme Court. If this measure is made effective as it should be by enumerating all forms of employment from laborers to executives, it would probably create jobs and positions for more than 6,000,000, the Senate committee calculated, and by adding to the buying power 6,000,000 employed, it would have a very stimulating effect upon every line of business.

In the last few years long periods of unemployment have contributed to decreasing farm incomes. Gross farm income has decreased from $11,950,000,000 in 1929 to $5,240,000,000 in 1932, with a loss of about 70 per cent in sales of farm machinery and an immeasurable loss to other industries.

We need not expect to be able to reemploy those who are unemployed unless the hours of labor are reduced, and we also need not expect prosperity as long as we have unemployment. We must have more general employment first before we have prosperity.

ARTHUR T. O'HARA.

Economy All Right, But It's High Time to Quit Squealing.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: When a nation or a man gets hard up, strict economy is to be admired where there is no loss of self-respect. The man with enough to live on who takes a mendicant attitude when times are tough is just a weakling. The man in a hole who puts on his best suit of clothes, smiles as if didn't matter much and with self reliance tries to make economy a stepping stone to better luck next time is a fellow who commands respect. He quite often lives to enjoy his full share of prosperity.

To say the least, the man forced to economize who pulls down the corners of his mouth and insists on rubbing it in by doleful talk is a nuisance. People are justified in losing confidence in him if he is trifling enough to advertise hard times any more than he can help in his own person.

This is true in regard to nations as well as men. It applies to Uncle Sam. To hear some of his talk during the past two or three years you might think him a beggar in rags pleading poverty. And he has not the excuse of our millions of citizen economizers.

It's high time to quit squealing, as a people and as individuals.

W. P. P.

Hope Springs Especially Strong This Spring, as Griffmen Are Given the Once Over.

To the Editor of The Post—Sir: If the Griffs miss the pennant this year, the disappointment of Washington fandom probably will be the worst it ever has suffered. This is so because the club's preseason publicity has the earmarks of what might be called a straight tip. This is to state that if the tip goes wrong, you can count me among the fans fooled by it. It has plenty to back it up.

In the first place, our line-up is free from aging specialty stars and undeveloped phenoms and has the right baseball click to it when it comes to playing the game e pluribus unum. The amateur spirit in professional players has a good deal to do with success in baseball, and right now I wouldn't trade good old Heinie, the Bold Goose of the Potomac and On-the-Job Schulte for any outfield in any league.

As for the infield and hurling staff, every fan knows they are fine and St. Luke Sewell, a natural-born catcher among the best, with Berg and Bolton as his understudies, rounds out a Griff club of which Washington fans are likely to be considerably prouder next autumn than they are this spring.

How to Keep Well

By DR. W. A. EVANS

GOITER AND PELLAGRA BELT.

A SCIENTIST has recently called attention to certain peculiarities of goiter and pellagra.

There is a well-developed goiter belt, within which there is an undue prevalence of troubles of the thyroid gland. Some of the people with thyroid troubles have marked deficiency of the secretion of these glands. If this grade of deficiency occurs in early childhood physical and mental growth is stunted and the affected person is known as a cretin. If it develops in adult life it causes a condition known as myxedema, in which disorder there is mental and physical torpor, as well as other symptoms.

A more frequently encountered abnormality is the anatomic goiter, the moderate sized neck growth seen in growing children. Another variety found, especially in adults, is that which causes protrusion of the eyeballs. This goes by the name of exopthalmic goiter. This type seems to be more nearly related to myxedema than it is to the other forms of goiter which cause the neck to swell. Then there is the very harmful variety called toxic goiter, in which there is extreme nervousness, nervous heart, high metabolic rate, and other symptoms.

These forms of goiter and some others not mentioned abound in the goiter belts and are rare elsewhere. In these belts it has been found that the drinking waters and foods customarily used are poor in iodine. Furthermore, it is accepted that goiter is decreasing wherever there is some addition of iodine in some form or other to the food or drink.

There are other regions that go by the name, pellagra belts. The people who have pellagra have a peculiar type of skin eruption, burning tongue, disturbances of digestion, and certain mental disorders. The commonly accepted theory is that people develop pellagra because they habitually eat foods deficient in certain vitamins. There are pellagra belts, because the custom is to eat less than the system requires of the protective foods.

The peculiarity referred to is that the goiter belt is not the pellagra belt, and vice versa. If one makes a map of North America, on which the goiter areas are colored black and the remainder of the country is left white, it may be used also as a pellagra map if to the legend is added "the white is the pellagra belt."

If further investigation proves this to be a fact the explanation will not be easy to find. What is there that causes goiter and, at the same time, operates to protect against pellagra? The relation of iodine to goiter is accepted, but no one has ever suggested a way in which it could be related to pellagra. It may be that pellagra is related to exposure to sunlight, but how can that be tied in with goiter, either as a protection against it or the other way? Pellagra is usually thought to be the result of poverty, undernourishment, or dietary deficiency, particularly in regard to one vitamin. But how is that to be connected up with iodine in the water and food, or with any of the forms of goiter? Or, is the peculiar relation of the goiter belt to the pellagra belt merely a coincidence with no casual relationship?

Stocks Stage Lively Rally On Signs of Better Trade

List Closes 2.6 Points Up as Turnover Mounts to 1,759,654 Shares.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Accumulating signs of acceleration in industry and fairly general advance in commodity prices stimulated stocks to their best rally since March 15 today.

The market finished at the top of a lively advance, with gains ranging from 1 to 4 points for active issues. Industrials made a particularly strong showing throughout the session, leading an early rise and displaying bullish tendencies in the period of quiet that preceded the final spurt.

Steel, silver, motor and copper shares were prominent, though all divisions brightened emphatically during the last half hour. Sales totaling 1,759,654 shares were the largest since March 16.

With wheat, silver, copper, sugar, zinc, cocoa and cotton quoted at better levels and bonds firm, stocks obviously felt impelled to reflect the improved spirits so widely noticeable. An encouraging report on current steel operations, together with a favorable interpreted unfilled tonnage statement from the leading factor in that industry and the recently available statistics on automobile production further fortified speculative sentiment which seemed eager to anticipate a spring business upturn.

United States Steel, common and preferred, up 2 and 3 points, respectively, set a good pace for their division. Bethlehem rallied more than a point and its senior issue was up 3. Vanadium, Youngstown, National Steel, Anaconda, Kennecott, American Smelting, Inland Steel and Howe Sound improved major fractions to nearly 2 points. United States Smelting, International Silver and National Lead gained more than 3, while Union Pacific, American Telephone, Consolidated Gas, General Mills and Du Pont advanced 2¾ to 3¼. Allied Chemical and Case rose 4 each. Numerous preferred stocks, especially of metal producers, jumped 2 to 3 or so. Gains of 1 to 2 for rails were plentiful.

Greater activity in the heavy industries, whose recuperation from the bank holiday has been slow, is accepted as a cheerful omen. Expanding motor car sales and output are quickly reflected in the steel mills, which are now working at something more than 17 per cent of capacity. United States Steel apparently enjoyed a substantial increase in new orders late last month since unfilled tonnage was down only 13,198 tons, whereas a decrease of 100,000 tons or more would not have surprised Wall street. In recent months the company has been maintaining production as closely as possible to incoming business.

The search for an answer to the inflation question still went on. Some quarters maintained that the country was to see a controlled credit expansion, but no currency "tinkering" and no reduction in the dollar's gold content. Silver's future in whatever scheme is to be worked out remains rather obscure, though it may be that the metal will be treated as a staple rather than as money. Establishment of the Government's credit on an impregnable basis is apparently a primary aim of Washington just at present, the inference being that this credit will be used constructively.

Still easier conditions prevailed in money. Stock exchange call loans got back to a 1½ per cent renewal rate and some concessions were made on time loans and prime commercial paper.

Copper metal was quoted by some sellers at 5⅜ to 5½ cents against 5⅛ late last week though demand remained light.

Stocks.

Signs of industrial improvement inspired a lively rally and leading issues climbed 1 to 4 points. The average gain was 2.6 points. Sales totaled 1,759,654 shares.

Bonds.

Prices mounted four-tenths of a point on easier money rates. Secondary bonds led the advance. The turnover reached $8,670,000.

Curb.

The market advanced along a wide front. Many leaders climbed to the best levels attained in the recent market recovery. The turnover increased to 200,000 shares.

Wheat.

Fears that the Government's report will show a larger crop damage than private estimates sent wheat prices higher. Corn and oats followed the rise. May wheat sold at 58⅛ to 58¼ cents.

Cotton.

Part of cotton's early gains were lost, but the market closed 3 to 5 points higher. July sold at 6.69. Liverpool was steady with scattered buying.

CURB SENT HIGHER IN CHEERFUL SALES

Broad Advance Achieved as Trading Rises to 200,000 Shares.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—With rising prices on the big board providing a cheerful background, the Curb market swung into a broad advance which carried many of the leaders to the best levels for the current movement.

Trading involved 200,000 shares, compared with 197,000 on Friday, making the session the most active since last March 17. Business was well distributed among such groups as utilities, chemicals, food, industrial and mining shares.

The top gains, ranging from 2 to 5 points, affected such stocks as American Gas & Electric, Commonwealth Edison, Columbia Gas & Electric preferred, Cheeseborough Manufacturing, Aluminum Co. of America, Montgomery Ward A, Newmont Mining, Great Atlantic & Pacific and Humble Oil.

Some of the lower-priced specialties picked up a point or more on a substantial turnover. Deere & Co. gained well over a point in sympathy with the higher trend of farm equipment shares on the big board. American Cyanamid B also continued to find a good following and rose fractionally to its best level since early in the year.

Despite rather active realizing in the late trading, prices of the leaders held close to their high levels and several were bid up sharply at the end of the session.

FOREIGN MARKETS.

(Associated Press.)

London—Most business was transacted in kaffirs and copper shares, which improved in a fairly active session of the stock exchange today. German bonds recovered moderately, while transatlantic issues and British shares were quiet. Argentina rails rose 1 to 2 points on the expectation of a trade agreement soon. The market closed irregular.

Paris—Benefiting by the buying movement and the further improvement in rentes, prices on the bourse registered a good advance. The market held hopefully toward the outcome of the conversations in Washington and closed firm.

Berlin—Trading on the boerse was listless and prices closed weak.

Money Circulation Reaches $6,319,364,400 in March

(Associated Press.)

Money in circulation in the United States decreased $225,702,400 in March as compared to February, leaving a total at the end of last month of $6,319,364,400 and evidencing diminution of hoarding.

A Treasury statement yesterday showing the amount on March 31 revealed that gold in circulation had dropped from $571,837,800 at the end of February to $366,636,000 at the end of March.

The amount of Federal Reserve notes in circulation had increased from $3,404,923,200 to $3,621,138,700. The total money in the country showed a sharp increase in March, jumping from $10,275,195,400 at the end of February to $10,624,922,700 at the end of March.

The amount of gold coin and bullion showed a decrease, however, dropping from $4,379,268,900 on February 28 to $4,276,671,100 on March 31.

The gold outside of the Treasury showed the Federal Reserve banks increased their holdings from $516,246,900 to $711,602,200 while the total gold outside of the Treasury dropped approximately $9,000,000 to $1,078,238,281.

Trade Indicators Pointing Upward

Loadings, Power and Steel Rise Slightly in Past Week.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Statistics appearing during the past week indicated a slightly rising business tendency, according to Moody's index figures for freight car loadings, electric power production, and steel ingot output.

These index figures are adjusted for seasonal variation—that is if the change from the previous week should coincide with the normal seasonal change, the index figure would be unchanged.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—The National Automobile Chamber of Commerce today estimated March production of cars and trucks at 81,370 units against 93,402 in February.

For the first quarter of this year production by the association's membership, which includes all important manufacturers except Ford, totaled 288,634 units, a decrease of 13 per cent from the same period of 1932.

Output in the latter part of March, it was said, reflected a larger increase than had been anticipated after the banking crisis. No figures for March, 1932, were available.

BONDS JOIN ADVANCE ON NEW MONEY RATE

Four-Tenths Gain Recorded as Sales Fall Off to $8,670,000.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—The bond market took a turn for the better today, rejuvenated by a further easing of money rates, firming commodity prices, reports of a moderate pick-up in business and a general improvement of investment psychology.

Although most United States Government securities were moderately higher, and highest grade corporation loans relatively steady, the reversal of trend was accounted for principally by rallies in the secondary groups.

Notwithstanding the apparent revival of sentiment, the turnover in all departments was rather restricted. Sales totaled only $8,670,000, par value, which was not quite up to normal. The average for 60 domestic corporate bonds, however, advanced four-tenths of a point, the first gain recorded since March 23.

Low-priced rail liens were the leaders in the day's recovery. Gains of 1 to around 4 points were retained by a number of these issues, including some of Baltimore & Ohio, Chesapeake Corporation, St. Paul, Denver & Rio Grande, Erie, Great Northern, Missouri Pacific, New York Central, Iron Mountain, Southern Pacific, Southern, and Western Maryland.

The best utilities and industrials, with advances ranging from 1 to around 3 points, included loans of American & Foreign Power, Columbia Gas, Dodge Bros., Goodrich, Goodyear, International Hydro-Electric, International Telephone, Pathe Exchange, Shell Union Oil, Sinclair Oil, Studebaker, Western Electric and Youngstown Sheet & Tube.

Federal bonds edged up one-thirty-second to nine-thirty-seconds of a point, but foreign obligations were mixed. Most of the Germans rallied around a point following reports of an agreement for closer cooperation between the German and British Central Banks, particularly in regard to exchange and credit problems.

Silver Prices Advance On Speculative Buying

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Heavy speculative buying appeared in the silver market here today and quotations jumped. Bar metal was quoted at 27⅝ cents an ounce, up ⅝ cent from Saturday. Futures, in a large turnover, advanced from about ½ to ¾ cent an ounce.

Unconfirmed reports from Washington that administration representatives had conferred with the British Ambassador concerning means of raising the price of the metal helped to put an edge on speculative interest.

Seth B. Hunt Resigns As Standard Oil Official

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Resignation of Seth B. Hunt as vice president, treasurer and a director of Standard Oil Co. of New Jersey, was announced today, effective April 5.

Hunt has been with the company nearly 40 years and decided to retire, the announcement said, in order to take a rest. He is 61 years old.

WHEAT VALUES GAIN ON DAMAGE TO CROP

Decrease in Visible Supply Also Aided Rise; Oats and Corn Up.

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Well-grounded belief that the Government April report would show worse crop damage than private advices implied gave wheat values a lively upturn late today.

A decrease of 2,596,000 bushels in the United States wheat visible supply had a further stimulating effect, and so, too, did reports of duststorms Southwest, with predictions of freezing temperatures tonight. Little attention was paid to inflation talk, crop news being the dominant factor.

Government figures sensationally outdid unofficial forecasts of winter wheat crop losses, and pointed to a probable 1933 harvest of only 334,000,000 bushels, the smallest yield since 1904. This total compared with April private estimates of 371,000,000 bushels. Detracting somewhat, however, from the bullish nature of the crop report was the fact that domestic farm reserve stocks of wheat were officially put at 178,000,000 bushels, a total above general expectance, and contrasting with 168,000,000 bushels estimated March 1 by leading private experts.

Highest prices of the day were reached by wheat just before trading ended with Septmeber contracts hovering around the season's topmost quotations. The late advance was in the face of heavy selling to realize profits. A big Eastern speculator was credited with much of the profit-taking. There was also a notable falling-off in the amount of wheat on ocean passage, the total afloat today being but 47,616,000 bushels, against 52,392,000 a week ago and 58,752,000 at this time last year.

Corn and oats were mainly governed by wheat action. Farm reserves of corn are regarded as somewhat bearish.

COTTON PRICES RISE ON TRADE'S OUTLOOK

July Sells at 6.69 as General Market Gains 3 to 5 Points.

New York, April 10 (A.P.).—Cotton climbed another 50 cents a bale in the early trading today, but lost part of the gain under last hour realizing.

July contracts sold up to 6.75 or 9 points net higher, later easing off to 6.68 and closed at 6.69. The general market closing steady at net advances of 3 to 5 points.

Initial prices were 4 to 6 points higher in response to relatively steady Liverpool cables. There was some selling here through brokers with Japanese and Liverpool connections, but the offerings were readily absorbed and prices worked higher during the forenoon in response to a more favorable view of general business prospects, encouraged by the strength of the stock market.

May at 6.53.

May closed at 6.53 and October at 6.91, or about 5 to 6 points off from the best.

While houses with Liverpool connections were credited with selling on balance there was some buying from that quarter, presumably to undo sold straddles.

Spot merchants here reported a slow demand for spot cotton, but said that mills were fixing prices on old purchases to cover recent sales of cotton goods.

Liverpool cables attributed the steadiness there to scattered buying from the trade and local sources and said the spot market was dormant with the demand from spinners restricted by the Easter holiday closings.

Exports today, 416, making 6,304,760 so far this season. Port receipts, 5,895. U. S. port stocks, 4,310,524.

The Meanderer

Takes Notes for Those Who Have Gardening Urge; Narcissus Show Announcement.

Telephone questions on The Meanderer's column to The Washington Post, National 4205, Extension 19; or address The Meanderer, The Washington Post, inclosing self-addressed, stamped envelope for reply.

The smiling girl who sells flowers just outside the door of one of Washington's largest food markets, is surrounded by bright blooms as the gardening season comes again. Her swift service for customers among the flowers she knows and cares so much about have pleased Meanderings readers. Her English daisies, white, pink rose . . . her baskets of bright pansies ready now for planting in the garden (50 cents a dozen plants) . . . the striking pink and purple anemones . . . pots of lilies of the valley . . . clumps of pink and blue forget-me-nots . . . brilliant azaleas . . . the much wanted delphinium plants, potted tulips, potted hyacinths and cut flowers of many kinds are finding buyers so rapidly that the flower girl scarcely can wrap them fast enough.

Hardy gardenia plants, now in bloom, have generous foliage of the deep shining green that is attractive without the blooms. One large flower shop on H street has a number of the gardenia plants to sell for $3.00 up. In other years gardenia plants have been priced much higher, so much higher than the present price that they have been prohibitive for the home gardener.

Rose trees in flower, from 18 inches high to 3 feet high, are selling for $1.50 to $5 in the H street flower shop just mentioned.

Easter lilies promise to be lower in price this week than at any Easter season for many years. Many florists are withholding their price announcement on lilies until the last of this week.

Narcissus in fragrant array will be shown in a special narcissus display in the garden department of a big F street department store on Thursday, Friday and Saturday of this week. Flowering narcissus of 150 varieties will be shown by a breeder and connoisseur of flowers, a grower who is widely known throughout the District of Columbia and adjoining States. His stock of narcissus bulbs includes 237 varieties. Orders for the bulbs, which cost from 5 cents each to $50 each, will be accepted, the bulbs to be planted next fall for flowers next spring.

Choicest of the narcissus blooms to be shown is the Fortune, imported by the grower two years ago from England. The bulb for Fortune cost a cool 10 quid, which is British for $50 before England left the gold standard.

Tulips will be featured soon in a similar flower show in the department store on F street where the narcissus exhibit is being arranged.

What Today Means to You

"ARIES."

IF April 11 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 7:30 a. m. to 8:50 a. m., from 5 p. m. to 6 p. m. and from 8:45 p. m. to 9:45 p. m. The danger periods are from 11 a. m. to 12 noon and from 7:10 p. m. to 8:20 p. m.

Some trivial disturbance is quite likely to start the day off wrong for you and unless you watch yourself you will be inclined to magnify it until it becomes a real stumbling block in the way of the day's progress. Children will find it difficult to concentrate.

The child born on this April 11 will most likely be so "full of pep" and always "on the go" that he may prove quite disconcerting to his parents who will find it difficult to keep up with him and guide him away from trouble and possible harm. Obedient, kind and reserved.

If April 11 is the date of your birth, you are more than likely a person of very set ways; it is quite natural and easy for you to get into ruts from which it is very difficult for you to remove yourself. Routine appeals to you; you do not like change of any sort, be it change of work, place and mode of living or of friends and acquaintances. You may find it necessary to travel a good deal in the course of your business career, but you will find it not at all to your liking and very wearing on your nerves, which otherwise are unusually calm. In all probability you will not hold more than one or two jobs in the course of your life. At your work you will make many friends who will love you for your rare good nature, your sincere frankness and your willingness to give another a boost whenever possible. Your business and social friends will be pretty much the same.

Born on April 11, you are very definitely a person who is much interested in family life and in the preservation of the family as a social unit. The women are splendid when it comes to handling children of all ages and of both sexes and will most certainly not waste their time and efforts if they devote them to the advancement of the young. They are able teachers and willing workers in child welfare work.

Successful people born on April 11: Edward Everett, statesman and author.

Charles Evans Hughes, lawyer and statesman.

Fifth Avenue Fashions

As well as for normal figures, this model is delightful for more matronly ones.

It is the wrap-over type of dress that lends such elegant height to the wearer.

For all its simplicity, it has a great deal of chic and charm.

Style No. 3265 is designed for sizes 16, 18 years, 36, 38, 40, 42 and 44 inches bust. Size 36 requires 3⅞ yards of 39-inch material with ⅜ yard of 27-inch contrasting. Price of pattern, 15 cents.

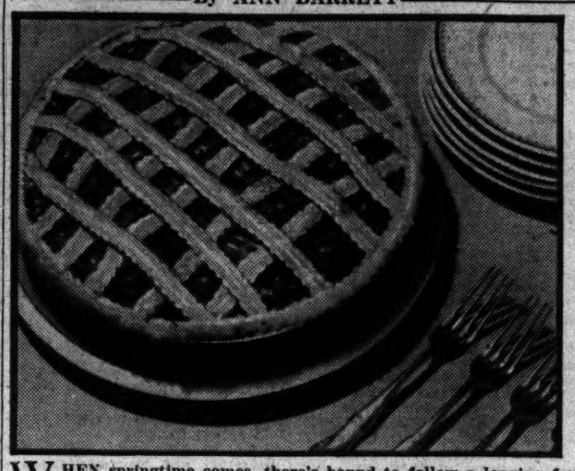
WHAT'S GOOD TO EAT

RHUBARB PIE AND CONSERVE PLEASE SPRING APPETITES

By ANN BARRETT



WHEN springtime comes, there's bound to follow a longing for fresh, tart flavors. Then the thing to do, according to Congressman Clarence F. Lea, of California (and millions more), is to take up with juicy rhubard pies with lattice-top crusts.

And maybe put up a few jars of rhubarb conserve or marmalade, so as to have this appetizing flavor to enjoy later.

Pointers to remember in cooking rhubarb for most purposes are as follows: Rhubarb with the pinkish tinge gives the best flavor and color. If rhubarb lacks flavor, pep it up with a little lemon or a hint of spice such as cinnamon, clove and ginger. Do not peel rhubarb unless the skin is thick and tough. Do not oversweeten it, or cook it in too much water, or cook it too long.

Rhubarb Lattice-Crust Pie.

In making a tip-top rhubarb pie, there is another point to remember. The addition of egg to the filling not only gives the pie greater richness but a blander, smoother flavor. Otherwise, the pie (for 9-inch tin) goes this way: Mix 1¾ cups sugar with 1-3 cup flour. Combine this with 2 beaten eggs. Then add 3 cups rhubarb (washed and cut in ½-inch pieces). Turn this mixture into an unbaked bottom crust (that has first been brushed with unbeaten egg-white to prevent soaking). Cover with narrow strips of crust, and bake in a fairly hot oven (450) for 15 minutes. Then reduce heat to 350, and bake till rhubarb is tender.

Rhubarb, Pineapple and Orange Conserve.

For rhubarb in a glorious combination of flavors, you'll find nothing to surpass rhubarb, pineapple and orange conserve—made as follows: First cut rhubarb in ½-inch pieces till you have 6 cups of it. Then cut 2 good-sized oranges in small pieces. Put these fruits in a large enamel or glass dish in layers with 6 cups fresh pineapple cut fine (or 6 cups canned, crushed pineapple—drained). Sprinkle sugar over each layer of fruit—using 10 cups in all.

Let this mixture stand overnight. Let the rind from the oranges (chopped fine and mixed with 1 cup cold water) stand overnight in another dish. Next day cook this rind in the same water till it is tender and water has cooked off. Add the fruit and sugar and cook till thick (from 40 to 60 minutes). This makes about 10 glasses of conserve.

Rhubarb and Raisin Conserve.

Another good conserve (rhubarb and raisin) is even easier to make. Put the following ingredients into a kettle; six cups rhubarb cut in small pieces, 8 cups sugar, 1½ cups seeded raisins, ½ cup water, 1½ cups orange juice, ¼ cup grated orange rind. Cook this mixture 20 minutes. Then add 1 cup almonds (first blanched and sliced). Cook 5 minutes longer. This recipe makes 8 to 10 glasses of conserve.

Guiding Your Child

By MRS. AGNES LYNE

MANY years ago teachers discovered that one of the easiest ways of getting children to exert themselves was to offer a reward to the one who came out ahead.

Only comparatively recently has another tendency in education made itself felt—the tendency to inspire children to work through joy in working together rather than through the desire to beat one another. The change is an improvement, for several reasons.

The competitive incentive results finally in a feeling of failure for all children except the one who did best.

It discourages such children as are alerady none too self-confident.

The child who wins in each instance is likely to be more pleased with having beaten the others than with the work he has accomplished.

The competitive incentive tends also to make all children more interested in marks, prizes and ratings than in the work or game itself. In this way it discourages real love of learning or real satisfaction in achievement.

Cooperation in school tasks tends, on the other hand, to encourage each child to make what contribution he can. It makes it possible for each child to have a feeling of success at the end of some common project, while at the same time he is able to absorb much of what the other children contribute, thus increasing his own knowledge and understanding of the subject.

The principle of cooperation lends itself to application in family life quite as easily as at school, where competition between brothers and sisters is especially harmful.

At home each child can be made to feel that his efforts to take responsibility and to be helpful are fully appreciated, that he need only to do his share to be a respected member of the family community.

Culbertson on Bridge

A MEMORY TEST.

THERE has been much discussion—a great deal of which, I will admit, I participated in myself—as to what a player would do if he were dealt a hand containing thirteen spades. I believe that the best bid on the hand would be a pass, as, with this unusual distribution and three Aces, three Kings, three Queens and three Knaves missing, it is inconceivable that some other player will not make a bid. However, it must be admitted that this problem is somewhat accentuated when the hand is held in Replay Duplicate, which is, to a considerable extent, a memory test as well as a test of the skill of the participants as Bridge players.

I am indebted to Mr. Montgomery Major, of Wilmette, Ill., for the story of a hand recently played at his home in Replay Duplicate, with both partnerships bidding the North and South hands in turn, but with a lapse of time between the play and the replay. The phenomenal hand that was dealt around the table was:

South, Dealer.
East and West vulnerable.

	♠ — ♡ 9 6 3 ◇ 9 7 5 4 ♣ K 8 7 6 5 3
♠ — ♡ 8 7 5 4 2 ◇ A K 10 6 2 ♣ Q 10 4	W N E S	♠ — ♡ A K Q J 10 ◇ Q J 8 3 ♣ A J 9 2
	♠ A K Q J 10 9 8 7 6 5 4 3 2 ♡ — ◇ — ♣ —

The participants in the game were Mr. and Mrs. Major and two friends. One of their friends was South and Mrs. Major, North, while the other of their guests was West and Mr. Major, East. The bidding on that occasion went:

South	West	North	East
2♠	Pass	2NT	3♡
4♠	5♡	Pass	5NT
7♠	Dbl.	Pass	Pass
Redbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

The diamond King was led, and the cards were not played out, South spreading his hand and claiming all the tricks. Some time later came the replay. This time Mr. Major was South, holding the perfect hand, and Mrs. Major sat East. The bidding, with Mr. Major's notes, this time was as follows:

(Figures after bids in table refer to numbered explanatory paragraphs.)

South	West	North	East
2♣	Pass	3♠(1)	4♡
5♡	6♡	7♡(2)	Pass
7♠	Pass	Pass	7NT(3)
Dbl.	Pass	Pass	Pass

"(1) A brilliant bid, I think. My partner had not yet identified this as the thirteen-spade hand, but he knew, from his own holdings, that there was something peculiar in the air.

"(2) By this time he suspected the thirteen spades and was trying to add mystification, I suppose.

"(3) Remembering the hand now, but being misled by my partner's bid, she placed the thirteen spades in his hand. If they had been, her contract could have been made."

Of course, the notrump bidder took no tricks whatever. It was a case of misplaced confidence or perhaps a faulty memory.

Mr. Major asked me to comment on the bidding. As a matter of fact, the bidding on the first and second rounds was quite good, but I still believe that on the first occasion South would have been wiser to pass, because if he happened to run against massed strength in an opposing hand with his unusual distribution, his opponents were apt to learn, as did one of Shakespeare's most notable characters, that "there is something rotten in the state of Denmark" when an Opening Forcing bid of two is made against three Aces and three Kings. With such abnormal holdings, there was no occasion to fear that the hand would be passed out in Rubber play. Of course, in Replay Duplicate, on the second round of bidding, it was a matter of catch-as-catch-can, and had West remembered the hand held by South, he might have countered the Opening bid of two clubs with the brilliant bid of seven notrump. However, I can not greatly blame the lady for placing a little confidence in her husband and his partner. Perhaps South's bid of five hearts and North's Raise to seven hearts should have put her on her guard, but I suppose she had been dealing with men enough to realize that they frequently do very dumb things, and when they do a wise or brilliant one, they are stepping out of character.

TOMORROW'S HAND.

If you were the Declarer and South at a contract of three notrump, against which West had opened the heart 2, how would you plan the play of this hand?

North, Dealer.

	♠ Q 7 6 5 ♡ K 7 ◇ A K 7 ♣ A 6 5 2
♠ 10 4 3 2 ♡ A Q 8 2 ◇ 10 ♣ K 9 7 3	W N E S	♠ A 8 ♡ 10 6 5 3 ◇ 8 6 5 4 3 ♣ J 8
	♠ K J 9 ♡ J 9 4 ◇ Q J 9 2 ♣ Q 10 4

Interpreting the Mode

By DARE

Two ways of the beach apron to be worn over one's bathing suit—wear one-half or both halves, as you wish!

A TOUCH of "fluff" in your evening wear this summer! Without this—where art thou—oh where, oh where!

Let it be boa. Or a lei, gigantic in proportion, but hanging there on the neck nevertheless. Or let it be a ruffled capelet—three tiers of different colors, perhaps. Or tulle—but nothing so simple as a mere scarf—tulle all sewn into some shape or other. Tomorrow I'll sketch you one.

And if your evening frock isn't just the newest of the new—well, well, all a clever lady has to do to make it so is to add something in the way of a ruffle to it.

Then if you have a stiff, sheer dress of say organdy or cire chiffon, nothing complements it quite as smartly as a jacket or capelet of plaid taffeta—or a stiff material of any kind, in plaid.

I just couldn't resist sketching for you one of the new double beach aprons—even if it is a bit soon to think about summer. You see—as you do see in the sketch, that this beach dress is in two colors, and two halves—and one wears one half or both halves, as desired. Slick, isn't it?

Ho, hum; spring in the air and everything, and me on a boat again. I wonder if there is anywhere, outside of a hospital, where one needs quite so many boudoir things as on a boat. Breakfast in bed, co-o-o-o-o-o-o-old drafts, chapped hands which require night gloves—and somehow every single thing that any one ever invented for the loveliness and comfort of mi'lad! is brought forth from its silken hiding place. Even if you aren't on a boat, you might send a stamped, self-addressed envelope to the Dare Department of The Washington Post for this week's illustrated leaflet which tells you how to make oh, ever so many of those darling boudoir things for your own loveliness—all in your spare time, of course.

NATS NOSE OUT ORIOLES, 5-4, IN LAST EXHIBITION

'5-Point' Plan Laid Down in National

Pres. Heydler Warns Against Fraternalism at Games.

(Associated Press Sports Editor).

NEW YORK, April 10 (A.P.).—For the purpose of developing a greater spirit of aggressiveness on the ball fields and giving the game more customer-appeal this year, John Arnold Heydler, president of the National League, today addressed a striking appeal to his players to avoid fraternizing with rivals or loafing at any stage of the forthcoming pennant race.

With the start of the 1933 season only two days off for the big leagues, and baseball as a whole facing what he described as an "acid test of popularity" in competition with other outdoor amusements, President Heydler laid down a "five-point" program for National League players.

"Never before have we faced more stringent money conditions or keener competition from other sports, motoring and amusements," wrote Heydler.

Aggressiveness of Play Is Urged.

"People are going to go to ball games and they are going to patronize other sports and amusements. But they will budget their expenses and will choose only what promises the most enjoyment.

"No outdoor game can compare with a major league ball game. But that game must be played aggressively by both sides. It is in your power to build up and maintain the interest in our game by a display of heads up, winning spirit which does not surrender until the last man is out. To sustain the spirit of contest and the ethics of sport, you are asked to accept and live up to the following:

"1. Do not mingle on the field with players of the opposing club. Keep away from their bench and dugout. Remain off the field when the other club is entitled to its exclusive use for batting or fielding practice.

"2. Do not enter the clubhouse or dressing rooms of the other team. Many players have shifted clubs during the off-season. The urge to hold friendly reunions will prevail; but the proper place for such contacts is not on or around the ball field.

"3. Do not take it for granted that, with a lopsided score against you, the game is lost and that you can take it easy. The man who pays is still entitled to your best effort and exhibition of skilled performance to the end of the game. Run out your hits. People do not like to see runners loafing to first.

"4. Attack and hustle, and still more action and hustle are needed in our games. Be enthusiastic and cheerful. Don't moan and quit if in a batting slump. Luck changes for the fellow who keeps on trying.

"5. Whether as active player or as sub on the bench, be alert and interested in every moment of the game. Encourage your brother player if things are breaking bad for him and good for you.

"President Roosevelt said: 'Major League baseball has done as much as anything else in this country to keep up the spirit of the people.'

"We must maintain this high appraisement. And you, as one of America's most skilled, fastest and best trained group of athletes, must accept your individual share of responsibility."

Ruth Expects Last Laugh; Predicts Another Big Year

By EDWARD J. NEIL.

NEW YORK, April 10 (A.P.).—A deep, war-like bellow, all the more basso profundo because of a sore throat, rumbled from the billowy caverns of Babe Ruth's massive chest today as he contemplated his twentieth major league campaign and promised confusion once more for the belittlers who say he's through.

"There," he snorted derisively as he scrubbed his great chest with a big towel and shook part of his shower bath out of his hair like an airedale, "those guys are crazy again. I may be 39 and I've slowed up some. I'm not trying to kid anybody, least of all myself. But through? Not by plenty, kid!"

Babe Points Back to 1932 Series.

Today he faces the 1933 campaign with the chorus of the doubters ringing steadily louder in his ears as they point to the fortieth year, old age for an athlete, that looms ahead of him. The Babe points right back at them—and to the world series last fall, when he was almost as old, and still able to call his home run shots and tear the Cubs apart with his big bat. He has lost no confidence in himself.

"I feel better right now, except for this sore throat that's stuck for five weeks, than I have at any time in the past five years," he says. "My legs are stronger than they have been any spring for ten years. I've done more real running down South than I ever tried before. And there hasn't been a single ache or pain in the old dogs, something brand new for me."

Stripped down to the bare flesh, there is no question that the Babe looks anything but his years. There is plenty of weight around his middle—enough so that in a baseball uniform he still looks as if he'd stuffed a watermelon under his shirt—but that's been his natural appearance for years.

Predicts More Homers Than Last Year.

"They say I won't play a hundred games," he says, more in sorrow than in anger. "Why, listen, I'll play every single game this season, if I don't get hurt. I'd have been in there all the time last year but for injuries and sickness. That's part of the game. Everyone gets into tough luck streaks like that some time or another.

"I figure I'll hit more home runs than I did last year, too. I need 48 more to make it an even 700. I'm not setting that for the limit, either."

What vague references there have been to Ruth's managing the Boston Red Sox next year leave the Babe cold.

"Why, I don't even know the people that own the club now," he says. "No one's said a thing to me. I'm still a ball player and I'm going to play ball as long as I'm able. Some day I'll have to quit, I know about that all right. But just put this in your pipe, kid; when that time comes, I'll be the first to know it. I'll never try to fool anybody. They won't have to tell me. I'll tell them."

And with that a great huge limousine, of greenish hue, rolled up to the clubhouse door.

"The missus," he said, as he grabbed the inevitable tan polo coat and cap, and rushed out.

DODGERS WIN FROM A'S IN 11TH

Wilson's Double, Taylor's Single Decide Game, 7 to 6.

BROOKLYN, April 10 (A.P.).—Hack Wilson's pinch double in the eleventh inning today climaxed the Brooklyn Dodgers' 7-to-6 victory over the Philadelphia Athletics in the final exhibition game of the season for both teams.

Batting for Hollis Thurston after a weakening Rube Walberg had walked Al Lopez to start the inning, Wilson smashed the ball into right center to score Lopez with the tying run. Danny Taylor then came through with a long single that ended the see-saw battle.

Johnson, of A's, Hits Two Homers.

Twice Bob Johnson, Athletics rookie who alternated between first and second, tied the score with home runs, once in the fourth and again in the ninth. Frederick also hit a homer to knot the count after the A's had worked a triple steal in their half of the tenth.

Tigers Route Bisons, By 8 to 4.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 10 (A.P.).—Winding up their training season with an 8 to 4 victory over the Buffalo International Leaguers, the Detroit Tigers entrained for Detroit this evening, with a record of thirteen victories and six defeats in their preseason schedule.

Cronin Hurts Finger; Not Broken

Injured by Drive in Second; 2 Other Minor Hurts.

By FRANK H. YOUNG.

ACCIDENTS surely were looking around Griffith Stadium for a place to happen yesterday and the crowd—which hit a new low in numbers—literally held its breath when, after muffing a liner off Cunningham's bat in the second inning, Manager Joe Cronin, of the Nats, hustled off the field holding a digit on his gloved hand like it was about to fall off.

The low, hard drive collided with the end of the fourth finger on Cronin's left hand and, at first glance, Trainer Mike Martin feared a bone break. The club physician, who happened to be on hand, also had his suspicions and Joe was hustled into his clothes and to Emergency Hospital where an X-ray was taken. Fortunately, this photograph showed nothing more than a bruise and Cronin returned to the stadium and bossed his team from the bench during the late innings.

While Cronin was nursing the injury in an ice pack, and was told to do so all of last night, there is hardly any likelihood of him not being ready for tomorrow's league inaugural against the Athletics. In fact, Joe will be allowed to practice today, although he has been warned that the digit likely will stiffen up overnight.

Bluege and Schacht in Mishaps.

The Nats evidently have neglected to "rap on wood" while bragging upon the scarcity of injuries in their camp this spring, for Cronin's was the third of the day. Two minor ones happened before the game, with Third Baseman Ossie Bluege and Coach Al Schacht the victims. Bluege's was an unusual one, a foul tip off his own bat bruising his left ankle while he was taking batting practice, but Schacht's was only to be expected, according to Johnny Kerr, a thrown ball hitting the comedian on his schnozzle while he was hitting during the Nats' fielding drill. "I'm surprised it didn't happen sooner," was Kerr's sympathetic remark as Al hustled into Trainer Mike Martin's office.

Bluege's injury is not serious and he expects to be on the job in tomorrow's opener against the Athletics. Kerr subbed for him yesterday.

"I'm glad we have a 24-hour option on Cecil Travis," said President Clark Griffith yesterday as he read a report from Chattanooga regarding this third base rookie. "They say here that he is a 'fielding fool' and a hitter, too," said Griff. "All he got in last Sunday's game against the Millers was two doubles and a triple."

Skipper Cronin is planning to start the regular season using General Al Crowder, "Prof." Monte Weaver, Earl Whitehall and Walter Stewart in regular rotation. He expects Alphonse (Tommy) Thomas to be ready to go the route within a week or ten days and then either will have him replace one of those named, in case one disappoints, or may decide to use this quintet in regular order.

"Moose" Clabaugh, who used to first-base for the Brooklyn Dodgers, sent Schulte back almost to the flagpole for a looper opening the fifth.

It was not until "Frankenstein" Boken singled opening the fifth that the Nats could get a man on the runways. Then came two more safeties in a row.

Just before he tripled two runs home in the sixth, in which the Nats tied the score at 4-all, Manush received a break when a dinky foul off his bat was allowed to drop safely while surrounded by Catcher Gaston and Third Baseman Stroner.

Buddy Myer pulled the old hidden ball trick on Pitcher Cunningham, on second in the ninth, but he was too clever in pulling it off as neither of the "guessers"—"Bottle" Cox and Guy Early—saw it and so the out did not count. This put the Nats in quite a hole.

Anxious Moments While Cronin Inspects Injured Finger

Illinois Rules Out Wrestling Matches

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—A strangle hold was clamped on professional wrestling in Illinois today.

Aroused by rumors of "double crossing," the Illinois State Athletic Commission issued an order indefinitely suspending the sport in the State as the result of the surprising finish of the Jim Londos-Joe Savoldi match at the Chicago Stadium last Friday night, which saw the former Notre Dame gridiron star victorious.

The suspension was the most drastic ruling the sport has suffered in its recent climb to popularity.

The commission refused to recognize Savoldi, who was awarded a victory over Londos, recognized as champion in some States, as the new title holder, because the commission ruled it did not recognize any champion or championship matches and had also refused permission to have Londos announced as champion just before his match with Savoldi started. The commission said that sanction for all wrestling bouts had been issued with the understanding that they were not for any championship, but were only exhibitions.

Tight Race Looms In Southern Loop

Atlanta, April 10 (A.P.).—The absence of an outstanding favorite leads Southern Baseball Association club-owners to look for a closer race in the campaign starting tomorrow, more interest and a resultant even-money break after two poor seasons financially.

There is no standout team as the clubs face the barrier. Opinion as to the September title winner is widely divided between five teams—Chattanooga, Nashville, New Orleans, Atlanta and Memphis. Also it appears there are no real weak entrants, although hardly possessing first-division strength, at least at this time, Birmingham, Knoxville and Little Rock are strong enough to offer sturdy competition to the other quintet.

American Association Opens Season Today

Chicago, April 10 (A.P.).—Aroused to a new enthusiasm by the revolutionary play-off plan, whereby even a fifth place club has a chance to win the championship, the American Association opens its thirty-second pennant campaign along the eastern front tomorrow.

Showers threatened almost every inaugural, but with clear weather a crowd of 29,500 to 31,000 was expected at the four games. Columbus, almost a unanimous choice to win the flag with its Red Birds, anticipated an opening day throng of 10,000 or more.

Decimal Beer

Not Good for Little Boy College Athletes of 18 to 25, Say Coaches.

By WESTBROOK PEGLER.

SOME persons interested in the care and feeding of athletes have decided that they will not permit the little boys, between the ages of 18 and 25, who go out for the varsity teams, to gaze upon the foaming seidel, even under legal conditions. Little boys at this stage of life are very delicate and do not know their minds so they require a lot of tut-tutting and mothering from their coaches and trainers.

Of course, in case of a war, they would be deemed quite fit to march and fight and fly and sleep in holes and live on coarse food and the responsibility for killing other persons would be theirs. But that is a frivolous business, calling for no such fine condition or important decisions as varsity football, for instance.

Comes Under Head of Character Building.

When a little boy of, say, 22 years and 185 pounds, is out for a place on the football team he must smoke a cigarette or eat a piece of pie and he must not drink decimal beers or he will lose his figure and his place on the squad. And his coach might go so far as to humiliate him publicly and break his heart. This comes under the head of character-building and the proper terms of scorn, contempt and so forth with which to address a little boy who has secretly eaten a charlotte russe may be obtained out of books on the subject.

He is a traitor to himself and his team, his alma mater, his coach, his papa and his mama and he will never amount to a damn in life unless he here highly resolves to break down and cry and stick his finger in his eye and turn over a new leaf and be a better man.

Disloyal Traitor Ordered Pie a la Mode.

The little boys were ordered out for a short hike after dinner, and one of them said he didn't think he cared to walk as he felt drowsy. At this, the old man flared up like a prohibition spellbinder apostrophising Johnny Walker and told him he was off the team.

"I know why you are drowsy, and so do you know," the old man thundered. "It is because you were disloyal. A traitor. Last night on the train you had permission to eat a dish of ice cream. But you ordered pie a la mode. You needn't go for a walk and you needn't report for the game tomorrow. You may turn in your suit. We have no place for your kind on this team."

So the little boy cried all night and as the season went on he got thin from pining and brooding and, finally, kind friends went to the old man and told him that that boy's heart was broken. So the old man forgave him and put him back in uniform in time for the final game and the little boy instead of telling him where he could go with his suit and his football team, decided that he had learned a great lesson in life.

Tragic Mishap in Hotel Years Back.

Beer or ale was rather commonly administered to the oarsmen and football players at many of the schools until prohibition came and, indicating that at least one football squad received an occasional ration of ale long after the adoption of the amendment, there was a tragic mishap one evening in a New York hotel. The football team had arrived in town for tomorrow's big game and the old grads were howling and snake-dancing through the halls of a hotel down town. The Athletic Association was spending a few dollars of its funds, under direction of the graduate manager, for a suite of rooms and a supply of hootch and everything was merry when in walked the bootlegger again, this time with a couple of assistants, carrying several burlap bags of ale.

The graduate manager was not present, but his assistant was and he

Young Van and Henry Irving, District middleweights, who fought to a sensational draw at Portner's Arena a few weeks ago, have been rematched for a battle next Tuesday night at the Alexandria fistic center. Billed as the season's "natural," Van and Irving had the spectators standing on their chairs in their first meeting. Van was near a knockout in the second round, but floored Irving in the sixth. Irving, however, came back to stagger Van in the eighth round. Both boys carry a heavy following. Van is from Southwest, while Irving draws the bulk of his followers from Northeast.

The match was arranged last night after three weeks of negotiations.

G. W. U. Gridmen Battle Saturday

Jim Pixlee, chief of staff of the George Washington board of football strategy, yesterday named the players who will be used Saturday in the game between the departing seniors and their less fortunate brethren who have a year or more of study confronting them.

This final game, calculated to attract not only students but a host of Washingtonians who would welcome an opportunity of seeing Johnny Fenlon hurl a pass or skirt an end again, may be played on a field other than the Tidal Basin. No definite site has been selected, but the information is expected to be forthcoming in a day or two.

Judges Rule Out Suit For "Daily Double" Pot

Cleveland, April 10 (A.P.).—A suit by Mae Boles, of Marion, Pa., against the management of the Bainbridge race track, near here, asking collection of $3,896 on a "daily doubles" was dismissed by Federal Judge Samuel H. West.

The plaintiff argued that she won the money under the "contribution" system used at the track on September 9, 1931, but was unable to collect.

Judge West held that it was a "gambling transaction. This is no less a bet because the money is called a contribution."

Kerr's Single Breaks Tie In Ninth

Nats, Outhit, Annex 9th Straight Game of Spring.

By SHIRLEY L. POVICH

BALTIMORE'S ambitious young Orioles, none of whom are quite 40, pecked away with great relish yesterday at the kindly offerings of Lefty Walter Stewart and seemed in a fair way toward taking the Nats and their eight-game winning streak for a fine lot of bird seed, but they couldn't digest a triple by Heinie Manush in the sixth and a single by Johnny Kerr in the ninth.

The Orioles made the most hits but the least runs, a combination that has been known to happen before, and the Nats concluded their training schedule with a victory by the close, but nevertheless satisfactory, figures of 5 to 4.

Former Major Leaguers in Action.

The Orioles' line-up looked like a depository for major league failures. Only two members of the Baltimore cast had never worn big league uniforms. There were cast-offs from the Braves, the Phillies, the Nats the Dodgers, the Tigers, and the Red Sox. But they didn't get their signals mixed. They were simply held on the four-run line by Stewart after the third inning.

Even with the sensitive beak of Goose Goslin on the premises, the Nats didn't get the smell of a hit or a run off Bruce Cunningham for four innings. Big Boy Cunningham, who used to toil for the Braves until the Boston owners decided on a new deal for Hub fans, mowed down the Nats as fast as the first dozen of 'em stepped to the plate.

After feeling Stewart out with one hit in the second and two in the third with no tangible results, the Orioles batted around in the third and there were serious doubts about all the good things the boys at Biloxi had said about the erstwhile left-hander of the Browns.

Akers Doubles Against Wall.

Despite all this agitation, Stewart was about as excited as a file clerk engaged in filing away. They didn't straighten out his curve ball thereafter. He clipped the Orioles' wings to the extent of three hits in the last six innings and would not have been confronted with filled bases in the ninth except for a bit of 3.2 thinking on the part of Cliff Bolton on a sacrifice bunt.

JUVENILE RACE FEATURE AT LEXINGTON TO MR. JAMES

Prince Drake Nears Track Mark in Cofeature.

LEXINGTON, Ky., April 10 (A.P.).—The racing program offered by the Kentucky Association consisted of seven claiming events and the Gallaher Farm Purse for 2-year-olds in which several promising juveniles were shown. Charlie Van Meter undoubtedly uncovered a very promising gelding in Mr. James. It was his first performance under silks and the St. James gelding showed speed just like his daddy did in his 2-year-old form. Mr. James was hustled to the front and stepping a fast half-mile won by himself.

Mr. James simply made a show of the field, leading practically all the way. Mr. James was ridden by the veteran, Willie Garner. He got the good thing away on his toes and beat Third Alarm by three lengths. Fire Neck was third, half a length back. The winner paid $11.92.

The fourth race, another 2-year-old event, went to Prince Drake, who carride the colors of E. Gay Drake. The son of Prince of Umbria shouldered 118 pounds and ran the four furlongs in 47 3-5, which is two-fifths of a second slower than the track record. Prince Drake drew away from his field and landed the purse by three lengths over Genteel Lady. Cabouse was third.

Bedight, at Odds-on, Wins Opener.

The racing here today showed a marked improvement over the opening card, with the choices went down to defeat. The talent began the afternoon auspiciously by putting over C. C. Van Meter's Bedight, odds-on favorite, in the opener. The winner was ridden by the promising boy, M. Parke. The lad allowed Last Stand to set the pace for half a mile and then shot the favorite to the front, winning by four lengths. Last Stand lasted long enough to gain the place by a head over the fast-closing Plum Wild. The time was 1:10.

AT THE POST

LEXINGTON, KY., APRIL 10.

DEAR AL:

I guess you're ducking. And don't say you didn't know it was coming. Yes, sir—Bill Bennings picked the first five winners here today. Here they are: Bedight, Mr. James, Thistle Fyfe, Prince Drake and Captain Red. No "among my one, two, three choices," no strings attached—right on the hickey. And what a nice looking juvenile is this Mr. James. What was it that I wrote about him? However, I will be mighty pleased to get back to Maryland, My Maryland, Saturday and, providing there's not too many three-card Monte games, I'll meet you under the train shed. In the meanwhile, these appear promising for tomorrow.

BILL.

FIRST RACE—JACOB'S LADDER was regarded as a potential star this time last year, but after showing some front running ability drifted into the semidiscarded class. But during the winter he developed, with work and showed some fast foot—the same speed that may carry him home ahead of this group. FREE HELEN seems a more logical place selection than JIM MACAW.

SECOND RACE—PENNCOTE seems to have the edge on this field that I wouldn't tackle if I didn't need the job. Just to go through the motions, I'll take ALTENA and HUG AGAIN for the place and show.

THIRD RACE—NUCKOL'S BOY comes up from down the line with some good races tucked away and gets the Bennings call among these. HAPPY LAD and PANGLESS will chase the top fellow home.

FOURTH RACE—ROPE WALKER should graduate from the maiden ranks in this sprint. Has worked well and is ready to step, I understand. OCTAVIA is a possible long shot for place. MARCH KING for the show end.

FIFTH RACE—SWEEPRUSH turned in a fine effort here the other day and gets my selection. RUCKUS improved with that last start and may be the dangerous one. COPLEY SQUARE for the show and all of it if the top ones make mistakes.

SIXTH RACE—RED WHISK is in excellent shape, I've been told and I see no reason why the stable should pass up this purse. Of the others, I like FRIENDLY CHARLEY and RED ROAMER.

SEVENTH RACE—CHICLERO, OGYGIA and LUCK PIECE seem to have this race sewed up. I expect them to finish in the order named.

EIGHTH RACE—JOLLY PILOT'S last was a beaut. GAY BIRD ran a nice place last out. MRS. FOSTER is getting good again. The mare goes to the top if the track conditions change.

Raines, Brand New Villain, Appears on Wrestle Scene

ALTHOUGH the principal source of the fun is expected to be supplied by Gino Garibaldi and Ernie Dusek in the main bout at the Auditorium Thursday night, Dick Raines and Casey Berger will contribute their share to the enjoyment of the fans.

Raines, who tossed Frank Judson last week while a thousand or so of the audience heckled him, is one of the most promising of the bad men the mat game has produced in a long time. Raines needs only a mustache and a whip, since he already has the Southern dialect, to imitate the old master, Simon Legree, with more than fair success.

Meanwhile Promoter Joe Turner and Bennah Bortnick are reported to have gone in conference over Garibaldi's refusal to work with the big arbiter in the ring. Bortnick disqualified the olive-skinned Gino in his last match for kicking Judson and Turner trumped that with a 60-day suspension.

Inasmuch as it is Cyclone Burns' turn to work the feature bout, Garibaldi's protest will not disrupt the orderly proceedings of the business.

Hitting the Headpin

Northeast Temple rolled an 1,808 set last night to take two from Columbia in the District League. Karl Gochenour, of Columbia, had a 397 set, but Ollie Pacini was right behind him, with 396, while Red Megaw rolled his highest game and set of the league, 154 and 394, to also share in the glory.

Herb McProuty, ace of the Water Department team, cracked the season game record in the District Government League with a score of 164 at Arcadia last night and topped off his stellar performance with a 415 set, which is second highest of the year. Electrical Department turned in a 590 game and Highway rolled a 1,648 set.

Burdett's 149 and 384 were high in the Men's Federal League at Arcadia. Internal Revenue rolled 608 and Postoffice, 1,713.

King Pin rolled a record for the season in the National Capital League at Lucky Strike last night, toppling 1,970 pins, while winning all three from Ye Old Tobacco Shoppe. Individual sets were Mandley, 399; Smith, 356; J. Harrison, 372; Pantos, 385; Clarke, 455. Astor Clarke's set came within an ace of tying the District record.

The team's games were 666, 665 and 638.

ordered the ale to be iced in the bathtub. An hour later the graduate manager phoned in from the team's headquarters to ask if any ale had arrived.

"Oh, yes," the assistant said, "and I have managed to save you two bottles. It was very good, indeed."

"What do you mean, it was good, fool," the graduate manager demanded. "That ale was for the team."

Some of the male mothers of the athletes, being interviewed on the subject of decimal beer for their delicate darlings, have said that they might sometime permit some boy to have eight or nine drops if he appeared run down or stale. But a boy who guzzles fifteen or eighteen drops will be off the squad because that boy is nothing but a drunkard.

Government League All-Star Five Named

The Federal News, sponsor of the Government Basket Ball League, has chosen Jack Understein of G. P. O., Ken Quigley of Bolling Field, Wick Parrack and Johnny Boyd of Crop Production and Cody Shapiro of Investigation on its 1933 All-Star team.

The second team includes Johnson, Crop Production, Hirsh and Morris of Investigation, Clarke of Fire Department and Ingham of Bolling Field. Parrack receives the "most valuable player" laurel.

NATS BEAT ORIOLES, 5-4, ON KERR'S HIT

Cronin himself was obliged to take an enforced rest in the second inning when he stuck a finger on his gloved hand in the path of Cunningham's liner and discovered that it hurt. Boken replaced him and there were three irregulars in the line-up, for Kerr was on third while Bluege was nursing a minor hurt and Bolton caught while Sewell was resting.

Boken Starts Attack.

The Nats chiseled a run from the Orioles' lead after four hitless innings when Boken singled over short, Goslin sliced a single to left and Schulte dropped another in the same spot. The uprising ended suddenly when Ciabaugh stuck a meaty gloved hand in front of Bolton's liner and waddled over to the bag to double Schulte.

When Stewart opened the sixth with a single to center, it was apparent that anything could happen, and a lot did. The score was tied in a jiffy when Kuhel singled into right and Manush lifted a Cunninghamm curve into right for three bases, later scoring as Akers was throwing out Boken.

With the hour getting late Goslin smacked a single into center to open the ninth and Schulte laid down the conventional bunt to send him to second. Cunningham slipped over the first strike on Kerr and then the second—almost. Kerr interrupted the pitch with his bat and sent it winging through the box. It grazed second base on its dead line into center and Goose picked 'em up and laid 'em down in great, but needless, haste to reach the plate while Solters tinkered with the ball in center field.

Beach Leads Pros With 73 Card

Special to The Washington Post.

BALTIMORE, Md., April 10.—Ralph Beach, of the Suburban Club, led the Middle Atlantic Professional Golf Association members who competed in a sweepstake at Hillendale today in conjunction with the annual meeting of the body. He toured the course in 73 strokes. Second was Al Houghton, of Kenwood, with 75, while Mel Shorey, of East Potomac Park, and George Diffenbaugh, of Indian Spring, tied for third with 76.

In a private best-ball fued, Beach and Bob Barnett, of Chevy Chase, scored a 66 to defeat Carroll T. MacMaster, of Hillendale, and also Alec Taylor, of Rolling Road, with 67.

Barnett automatically became the new president of the association at the meeting which followed luncheon. He succeeds Beach, with Glenn Spencer, of Maryland Country Club, automatically advancing to the position of first vice president, to follow Barnett into the leadership. In the only competitive election, that of second vice president, with choice restricted to District of Columbia professionals in order to keep the alternation between cities in proper order, Al Treder, of Manor, defeated Houghton and Sandy Armour, of Congressional.

Secretary-Treasurer Jobs Combined.

The office of treasurer, held by MacMaster, was combined with that of secretary and the dual role assigned to Warner Mather, of Woodholme, who has been secretary for three years. The change was made to facilitate handling the association's business. A companion enactment provides for the retention of the retiring president each year upon the executive committee to retain an odd number for purpose of avoiding deadlock in voting and to profit by each leader's experience.

After some discussion a new plan, proposed by Beach, to hold round-robin individual tournaments through the season was adopted. Play will be held on Mondays, pitting individuals against each other in single matches, with a fund created by entrance fees to provide prizes to the winners. The tournament will rotate among the courses and will be planned to coincide with the regular tournament schedule of the body.

Other ideas to promote interest among golfers were invited, and the executive committee was constituted as a tournament committee to handle details of various events. The matter of publicity also was given consideration and steps taken to coordinate efforts to the best advantage.

The tournament scores:

G. U. Prep Defeats Tech Nine, 6 to 4

Although Tech batsmen handled the offerings of Tom Keating familiarly, poling out 11 hits, they were unable to convert them into a proportionate number of runs, and so bowed by a score of 6-4 to Georgetown Prep yesterday at Garrett Park.

The Little Hoyas were not bashful in their stick work either, making 10 hits off a trio of Tech hurlers. Four runs in the first round and one in the fourth bagged the decision.

Waverly Wheeler, Tech shortstop, and George M. Cohan, jr., Prep catcher, who is almost as good an athlete as his illustrious pop is an actor, led the hitting. Wheeler slammed two doubles and a single in five trips to the plate, and Cohan collected a brace of two-baggers and a triple the three times he came to the plate.

Eastern-Episcopal In Meet Thursday

Eastern High School's track meet with Episcopal High School will be held at Alexandria Thursday instead of today, as previously announced, it was learned last night. Tech's scheduled meet with the Virginians, announced for Friday, will not be held until a week from that date.

Eastern has a young and green squad, and with only three weeks of practice is not yet in the best condition. However, Coach Mike Kelley expects his charges to make a creditable showing Thursday.

Dougan and Landers Meet In Portner's Bout Tonight

By DAVE HERMAN.

THE fur is expected to fly tonight at Portner's Arena, where Leroy Dougan, of Blytheville, Ark., and Billy Landers, popular Norfolk (Va.) boxer, exchange blows in the headline match of a 30-round program.

Meeting in a return engagement, Dougan and Landers will clash over the ten-round route, with the winner to receive a feature shot at Benny Schwartz or some other scrappy bantamweight.

Dougan, a vestpocket edition of Mickey Walker, was the conqueror when he fought Landers a few weeks ago in a six-round semiwindup that was studded with thrills and action galore.

Mills to Take on Davis.

Tex Mills, of Norfolk, who recently decisioned Charlie Gomer, trains his heavy fistic artillery on Roddy Davis, the Capital Limited, and one of the District's most promising lightweight prospects, in an eight-round semifinal scrap. Davis' last duel at Portner's ended suddenly in the first round, with Bucky Taylor, of Baltimore, the victim of a technical knockout.

Doug Swetnam returns to meet Calvin Colp, a newcomer from Baltimore, in a six-rounder. Spike Kelly, garrulous Floridian, who once held Bob Godwin to a draw, makes his bow in a four-rounder with Walter Kirkwood, the hard rock from Portsmouth. Johnny Gallo, French-Arabian and former bantamweight champion in an Army division, faces Baltimore Harry Groves in an opening four. Kelly and Gallo are the property of the affable Ralph Murdock, the first to bring out Al Foreman, and who is now attempting a "Foreman" with Leroy Dougan.

Dougan-Landers Promise Battle.

Over at Frankie Mann's gym yesterday Dougan and Landers exchanged greetings while being "shot" by photographers. Both looked in the pink of condition. Tonight they exchange blows in what smacks of being another whirlwind, and rip-snorting tussle.

LEROY DOUGAN.

Dougan will tip the beam at 128 pounds, while Landers, according to his manager-trainer, Chris Dundee, will strike the scales at 120. Both fighters have hung up wonderful records during the six years of ring activity.

Landers, the boy with a ripping right hand, has waged many a sensational bout around this way, particulary stirring being his scrape with Benny Schwartz. He also did a noble job of his match at Portner's in February of 1932 with champion Midget Wolgast. Recently the Norfolk buzz saw scored knockouts over Tommy Horn and Sammy Romano.

BOXING BITS' SELECTIONS—Dougan to beat Landers, Davis to beat Mills, Swetnam to beat Calp, Kirkwood to beat Kelly, Gallo to beat Groves.

HAYS STARS IN CENTRAL VICTORY

Allows 4 Hits and Fans 13; Baltimoreans Bow, 6-1.

JACK HAYS, a newcomer to the Central High baseball team, twirled a masterful debut performance yesterday when the Mount Pleasant outfit turned back the highly rated Mount St. Joseph Nine, of Baltimore, 6-1.

Hays struck out 13 men and tolerated only four hits to ricochet off the bats of the Baltimore crew, two of which were collected by Ben Bassil, the team's proudest boast.

Little Shorty Chumbria' brother, Lou, played good ball for Central in right field and got two hits in four times at the bat. The longest drive of the game came from the bat of Buddy Nau, Central's all-high second baseman, who socked a triple in the fifth.

Radio Dial Flashes

By ROBERT D. HEINL

THE "dear boobs," as George Bernard Shaw called Americans, and which he now says he regrets having said, will have an opportunity to listen to the British controversialist tonight, when his only address in the United States is heard through Station WMAL at 8:45 o'clock.

Shaw will stop off in New York on his trip around the world long enough to appear as guest of honor before the Academy of Political Science during a special meeting in the Metropolitan Opera House.

Shaw was invited to speak to the academy by Alanson B. Houghton, president of the academy and former Ambassador to the Court of St. James.

Solly Ward will continue his harried efforts to build the perfect radio show in the Five Star Theater tonight. His usual frantic session with acrobats, bicycle riders and ice-skating hens will be on the air. Snunnie and her dog, Snunnie, may possibly drop in for a few minutes' heckling between the musical numbers.

A new spring season of symphony concerts under the baton of Walter Damrosch will be inaugurated tonight (WRC) at 10 p. m. In the initial program Dr. Damrosch will present two Chorales and the Suite in C by Bach, Beethoven's "Coriolanus" overture, the Polonaise for strings, and Allegretto and Scherzo from Symphony No. 7.

TO date I have seen no mention that the late Sir Henry W. Thornton, an American, former chairman of the Canadian National Railways, was one of the first in the world to establish two-way radio telephone connections between a railway train and points en route. In fact, he talked with the Foreign Office in London and with the Secretary of Commerce in Washington from a Canadian National train traveling between Montreal and Quebec at 70 miles an hour. Ordinary desk telephones were used during the conversation.

Sir Henry told me in Montreal the last time I saw him that the experiments had proved so successful that the only reason for postponement of installation of telephones for regular radio telephone service on Canadian National trains was the depression.

Sir Henry Thornton has provided his patrons with radio entertainment aboard trains for years. Likewise he developed a Canadian coast-to-coast network of broadcasting stations.

Despite his austere title, Sir Henry was a regular fellow personally—an ardent circus enthusiast, and a member of the Circus Fans' Association, I learn from Kari Kae Knecht, president and founder of the famous organization.

The Pickens Sisters, singing trio from Georgia, will soon be able to open a dress shop of their own. Every time they appear on a program the three sisters buy the same gowns, only different sizes. They will soon have enough gowns, Patti confided, to open a small store, for "there's three of everything to pick from."

Mary Livingston distinguished herself as an imitator of Mae West during a program over the networks recently. Miss Livingston mastered Miss West's dulcet speech of "She Done Him Wrong" during a single sitting at the performance of the popular talkie.

"But I was never so nervous in my life," said Miss Livingston (Mrs. Jack Benny out of office hours). "I worried a lot about the imitation, for after all, there's no one talks just like Mae West!"

Mae, herself, will be interviewed as the highlight of California Melodies (WJSV 9:30 o'clock tonight). The glamorous star of the screen will expound her ideas on love, pictures and night life.

The cadets of Massanutten Academy, Woodstock, Va., will be heard over WJSV a week from this afternoon, from 3 to 3:15 p. m., Eastern standard time. The cadets sing under the direction of Jean Poulit.

IN the new "Nursery Rhymes" broadcasts, which will be heard at 5:45 p. m. each Tuesday over WEAF (but not WRC), Milton Cross will recite standard nursery jingles and other simple poetry suitable for young children, and James will sing medleys of the familiar rhymes. A small, nonjazz orchestra will supply the musical accompaniment and background.

James Wallington, with a pack-set transmitter strapped to his back, will roam the three rings, interviewing human and animal performers at Ringling's circus in New York, and describe the thrilling scene. (WJZ, 2:15, but not WMAL.)

Huge parabolic microphones set up at the side will pick up the general noise of the circus, the roars, growls, squeals and stamping of the animals and the cries of the performers, as well as the applause of the audience.

The reactions of the American youth of today to the social and ethical upheavals now going on around him will be discussed by Dr. Mather Almon Abbott, headmaster of the Lawrenceville School for Boys, in a series of talks. Beginning today, Dr. Abbott will be heard on four successive Tuesday afternoons on programs of the Woman's Radio Review. (WRC, 3:30 p. m.)

Sade—So, it comes out at last—all you married me for was my dough.

Tom Howard, the prize mental midget of the Musical Grocery Store, has perfected his latest invention. It is a derby hat with a trap door in the lid so he can comb his hair without taking off his hat. Tom says that this saves untold wear and tear.

PAN AMERICAN DAY speakers will be Dr. Leo S. Rowe, director general of the Pan American Union, and Dr. Ricardo J. Alfaro, Panamanian Minister to the United States. (WMAL, 11:30 a. m.), Dr. Clyde Heck Marvin, president of George Washington University will preside. . . . Queenie Smith, musical comedy star, will be a featured guest with Julia Sanderson and Frank Crumit (WRC, 8 p. m.). . . . Ceremonies attending the unveiling of a bust of Cyrus H. McCormick, inventor of the reaper, in the Old Hall, Virginia House of Delegates, will be broadcast from Richmond over WJZ this afternoon at 3:15, but not WMAL. . . . Tommy McLaughlin, barytone; David Ross, poetry reader, and Andre Kostelanetz's Orchestra will weave a pattern of "Sweetheart Memories" for their "Threads of Happiness" (WJZ presentation, 9:15 p. m.).

THE WMAL program tells us that Ruth Van Deman and several others will adorn the National Farm and Home Hour today (12:30 p. m.), but an NBC press notice from New York says that it will be a group of agriculturists from the Chicago Cubs baseball team, such well-known agronomists as "Gabby" Harnett, Babe Herman and Lon Werneke. Take your choice!

Everett to Speak at Luncheon.

The retail marketing committee of the American Marketing Society will hold a luncheon meeting today in the Commerce Building. W. W. Everett, vice president of Woodward & Lothrop, will address the group on "Maintaining Store Prestige."

THE ONCE OVER

By H. I. PHILLIPS

PROGRAM FOR NEW YORK'S WELCOME TO MR. SHAW.

6 A. M.—Tolling of church bells to indicate that sun and Mr. Shaw have risen.

7—Twenty-one gun salute conveying to the community the news that Shaw, the Inimitable, is near.

8 o'clock—Special description of what the Peer of All Authors has for breakfast, over national network, with special description of his soft-boiled egg technic by Graham McNamee.

8:30 to 8:45—Fifteen minutes of silence throughout Greater New York, during which all citizens will stand with bowed heads while Mr. Shaw is unloaded by special permission of the copyright owners.

* * * *

9 a. m.—Mr. Shaw lands while thousands cheer under the impression he is a channel swimmer, a professional golfer or some Englishman about to try for a new auto record at Daytona Beach.

He is asked what he thinks of the skyline and declares it a reflection of American idiocy.

9:15 to 9:30—Parade up Broadway, during which thousands of brokerage office clerks bombard Mr. Shaw with ticker tape, corks and old newspapers under the impression he is Gloria Swanson's latest foreign husband.

9:45—Arrival at City Hall and address of welcome by Mayor John P. O'Brien. The mayor lauds Mr. Shaw for his great contributions to science and higher mathematics under the impression he is welcoming Prof. Einstein.

There is a brief delay while the mayor listens to the radio and has Mr. Shaw properly identified. He then chats affably with the Britisher, assuring him that his two plays, "Captain Barbara's Profession" and "Fanny's First Lion," were wows. Mr. Shaw asks the mayor why he wears such funny hats and expresses the opinion all American mayors are dumb.

* * * *

10 a. m.—Singing of "The Star-Spangled Banner" by Beatrice Lillie, Noel Coward, Alfred Lunt and Clifton Webb.

10:25—Grand Humiliation of Lesser Minds by means of a personal talk to the "Dear Boobs of America" by Mr. Shaw over the mike.

Noon—reception and promiscuous insult hour. Open to all, with ladies and children especially favored. Crying towels will be supplied easily wounded picture actresses in the lobby.

Noon to midnight—Camera!

PLANS OF REOPENING CAPITAL BANKS WAIT DATA ON CONDITIONS

Reports to Be Made Soon, Cummings Says; Some May Be Merged.

Whether Washington's closed banks can reopen seperately or must be merged before receiving license to operate will be decided as soon as complete reports on the conditions of the closed institutions are received, Walter J. Cummings, Assistant Secretary of the Treasury, said yesterday.

These reports will be received in a few days, he added. Where possible, banks will be allowed to open individually. In some cases, however, it may be found wise to merge two or more of the banks before they are opened. Mr. Cummings, who was appointed Saturday and at once took up the solution of Washington's problem, said he would not concern himself with Reconstruction Finance Corporation loans to the banks. These loans must be obtained by the banks on their own merits.

Financial Statements First.

Officials of the closed banks will not be asked to submit plans for reopening their banks until after the financial statements have been received, he said. Three banks are known to have plans for reopening, all based on the possibility of obtaining additional capital.

The Industrial Savings Bank is trying to bring its capital up to $100,000 through subscriptions of new stock, while the Potomac Savings Bank is seeking $500,000 in new stock. Northeast Savings Bank is attempting to raise its capitalization from $150,000 to $250,000.

Listed in Five Classes.

In the financial statements of the closed banks, their assets are being listed in five classes—fine, good, fair, bad and uncollectible. Washington real estate men have been employed as appraisers to estimate the value of real estate on which the banks own paper.

A crowd reported to be both large and enthusiastic last night heard George P. Hoover, conservator for the Northeast Savings Bank, explain that institution's plan for reopening. Subscriptions for new stock poured in, Mr. Hoover said, after he had offered to let any committee of depositors examine the books of the bank. At an earlier meeting of the depositors more than one-third of the necessary new stock was subscribed, and this did not include offers of new capital made by corporations.

Piney Branch Citizens Score School Fund Cut

The reduction in the school appropriations was condemned last night by the Piney Branch Citizens Association. It was contended the estimates were a minimum figure for the efficiency of the school system.

The association asked the District Commissioners to remedy the hazardous conditions caused by the irregular intersection of Arkansas avenue and Decatur street northwest.

Park View Citizens Laud Bank Service

Mechanics Savings' Aid to Community in Crisis Commended.

Strong opposition to the proposed cuts in the 1934 District budget was voiced last night in a resolution adopted by the Park View Citizens Association. In another resolution the association voted to contribute $10 toward the continuation of Community Center activities at Park View School.

The Georgia Avenue branch of the Mechanics Savings Bank was commended by the association for its splendid service to the community during the bank crisis, and Jere Crane, business manager of the Board of Education, was voted the appreciation of the group for his work in improving the Park View School grounds. The association asked that a light be installed in front of the school to illuminate the steps.

A motion was adopted asking that the Park Road entrance to Soldiers Home be made over to reduce traffic danger. Several piano selections were played by Miss Anna Vagnani at the close of the meeting.

Five Hurt as Auto Runs Into Another

Avoiding Taxi, Motorist Hits Parked Car; Child Among Injured.

Five persons were injured last night when an automobile, trying to avoid a collision with a moving taxicab, crashed into a parked car in the 1500 block of K street northwest.

Charles Fisher, 36, who had recently returned from Mexico and who gave as a local address 933 K street northwest, after narrowly missing the taxi crashed into a car owned, police said, by Donald Blate, 1624 K street northwest. He was removed to Emergency for a severe laceration of the tongue.

Other passengers of Fisher's car, who also were removed to Emergency, were Mrs. Louise Fisher, 25, his wife, treated for bruises and lacerations; Jack Fisher, 7, their son, possible fracture of a finger; Gertrude Henderson, 29, of Baltimore, possible internal injuries, and Ruth Phifer, 31, 2038 I street northwest, who was treated for bruises to the back.

French Society Defers Meeting.

TROLLEY FARE CUT ASKED BY CITIZENS

Stanton Park Group Avers Cab Business Only Utility Doing District Justice.

Declaring that the only public utility doing justice to the City of Washington is the taxicab business, the Stanton Park Citizens Association, meeting last night, adopted resolutions condemning other public utilities for their failure voluntarily to reduce rates in proportion to present wage reductions.

Discussion was centered particularly on the present condition of the two local street car companies. A resolution was adopted asking a reduction in street car fare. The reduction in car fare, it was explained, would be justified in view of the proposed reduction in salary to street car employes.

The association adopted a resolution condemning the drastic economy slashes in District school appropriations. A charge was made that the school reduction was made through improper source and without investigation or scientific knowledge. The association contended that enacted school economies could have been accomplished with much less damage had the School Board had a voice in the matter.

Hillsdale Citizens Vote Cooperation With Group

Cooperation with the Association for Study of Negro Life and History, under direction of Dr. Carter Woodson, was voted last night by the Hillsdale Citizens Association, at a meeting held in the auditorium of the Birney School, with a view to arranging public meetings and raising funds. Establishment of a lobby at the Capitol in interest of legislation affecting the Negro was advocated by A. E. Franklin.

W. H. Lewis, president of the Garfield Civic Association, who installed association officers, plead for cooperation between the Hillsdale and Garfield groups. Officers installed were Ivory Brown, president; John Simmons, vice president; J. Henry Dale, secretary; George Frazier, assistant secretary; W. E. Wills, treasurer; the Rev. P. A. Scott, chaplain; the Rev. J. T. Slaughter, assistant chaplain; Lewis Taylor, sergeant at arms.

Kalorama Group Urges New Bridge at Calvert

Denouncing the cuts in appropriation for District libraries and schools, the Kalorama Citizens Association last night adopted a resolution asking Congress for an appropriation to replace the Calvert street bridge.

Miss Etta Taggert, candidate for appointment as judge of Juvenile Court, was appointed chairman of a committee on national representation after a resolution was adopted reaffirming the stand of the association in favor of representation for the District. A letter of appreciation will be sent to Senator Arthur Capper, of Kansas, for his cooperation while chairman of the District Committee, it was decided.

Life Is Sweet

Policeman W. D. Ballinger, of the Traffic Bureau, has a friend for life. On March 24 he was standing near Key Bridge when a man approached, handed him an overcoat, and walked away with the parting request of:

"Hold my coat, mister, while I jump from the bridge."

Yesterday the would-be jumper, Walter C. Williams, was released from Gallinger Hospital, where he was sent by Ballinger for mental observation. His first comment was:

"I want to thank Policeman Ballinger for what he did for me and through The Post I want him to know I will never again attempt such a foolish thing. I am glad to be alive and although I am out of work I owe my life to him and will struggle along some way."

GIRL LINKED AS BANK HOLDUP ACCOMPLICE

Police Believe Pretty Blonde Acted as "Lookout" in $8,000 Robbery.

An attractive young blonde, who handled a large black sedan with the maneuvers of a veteran, was linked as a possible accomplice in the Washington Mechanics Savings Bank holdup Thursday, when members of the police headquarters holdup and robbery squad revealed last night that witnesses had testified to seeing her in the vicinity of Eighth and G streets southeast a short time before the bank was looted.

Driving a high-powered car, witnesses told police the girl drove past the bank several times. She disappeared a few moments before the actual holdup was staged, police were told, only to reappear and follow the bandit car in its escape.

Detectives are working on the theory that she acted as a "lookout" and after the four holdup men ran from the bank with a loot of $8,000, followed their machine to Thirteenth and D streets northeast, where they changed cars and escaped.

Residents of Hyattsville, Md., police said, reported seeing a large sedan, driven by a young blonde girl and occupied by several men, speeding toward Baltimore some time after the robbery.

The daring daylight holdup was staged as police concentrated their attentions on the Army Day parade. Several employes and customers of the bank were forced at gun point to remain quiet while the bandits scooped up money and escaped in a waiting automobile with a fifth man at the wheel.

M'KINLEY CAPTURES TWO CADET EVENTS

Again Proves Superiority at Battalion and Band Concert Contests.

Again proving itself to be the ace cadet outfit of 1933 in the Washington public school system, McKinley High School captured the honors in the annual battalion and band contest at Central High Stadium yesterday afternoon.

The First Battalion, Second Regiment, constituting the McKinley Cadets, won first place in the battalion competition, and the Second Regiment Band, also made up of McKinley Cadets, was awarded first place in the band contest.

The victorious battalion was led by Edward Evans, jr., while the winning band was led by Karl E. Krumke.

Second place in the battalion drill was won by the First Battalion of the Third Regiment (Eastern High School), and third place by the First Battalion of the First Regiment (Central). The Third Regiment Band (Eastern) won second place in the band contest.

McKinley has won every cadet honor of the year—Company E, of that school, having been selected as honor guard company for the year, and the Company A team having been awarded first place in the war game tournament.

Only two honors are left to be won, the annual regimental drill, to be held at Central, April 24, and the annual competitive cadet drill, in which the best cadet company is selected, to be held at Griffith Stadium, June 5 and 6.

A cup, awarded by Col. Wallace M. Cragie, military instructor in charge of high school cadets, goes to the winning battalion, while the major of this battalion receives a gold medal awarded by the cadet fund. The winning band receives a silver cup, and the leader, a medal given by the cadet fund. The cups and medals will be presented after the drill, April 24.

Judges of the battalion drill were Capt. Carleton Smith, First Lieut. John G. Hill and First Lieut. Thomas H. Allen, of the local headquarters company, of the U. S. Army.

The band contest was judged by A. Buglione, retired leader of the Fifteenth U. S. Infantry Band; Warrant Officer Lewis Yassel, leader of the Third U. S. Cavalry Band, and Warrant Officer Joseph Dufresne, of the Third U. S. Cavalry Band.

Colored Cadets Compete Today at Dunbar High

The Ninth Brigade, colored high school cadets, will hold its annual regimental and battalion competitions today in the Walker Stadium, adjacent to Dunbar High School, beginning at 11 o'clock and continuing until 4 o'clock. Representative Oscar DePriest, of Illinois, will present awards to the winners.

Competition will be between cadet organizations of the Twenty-fourth and Twenty-fifth Regiments, representing Dunbar, Armstrong and Cardozo High Schools. Armstrong has proved the victor in these competitions for several years, while Dunbar has as consistently won the company competition in May. Capt. A. C. Newman will be in charge of the competition.

The Pi Chi Sorority of Columbus University will hold its annual prize debate tonight in the Knights of Columbus Hall, 918 Tenth street northwest. The subject of the debate is: "Resolved, That the Constitution should be amended so as to enable Congress to pass uniform marriage and divorce laws."

100 BUSINESS MEN PROTEST CLAUSE IN BEER REGULATIONS

Police Will Clamp Down on Violations as Beverage Is Still Scarce.

An early clamping down by police on dealers violating provisions of the beer act was indicated last night by Inspector L. I. H. Edwards, police member of the beverage board.

Pending a consultation with Maj. Ernest W. Brown, his superior, Inspector Edwards would not specify a period for beginning enforcement measures but indicated that selling across the bar and allowing beer consumptions by dealers possessing only "off sale" licenses would soon evoke arrests.

Declaring that police were already under strict orders to take quick action in cases of selling to high school boys and girls, the police inspector said that in the cases of other violations the time for "warnings is drawing to a close."

Business Men Protesting.

Meanwhile the beverage board is confronted with the irate protests of business men operating under "nonconforming" specifications of the zoning act.

Going into effect on August 1, 1920, the District zoning statute allowed businesses already established in zones declared "residential" to continue.

However, the beer act contains no wording, it was learned, to allow licenses to be granted to such establishments. Approximately 100 firms in various sections of the city are affected. The beverage board, it was learned, can do nothing but reject the applications.

Unsteady Supply Persists.

Dealers affected by this technicality are said to be considering court action. At least one test case is tentatively planned for early introduction in District courts, according to an authoritative report.

The unsteady supply of beer yesterday had a "bullish" tendency on prices at some dealers. Beer that had been selling at 15 cents a bottle was being priced at 20 cents.

No fluctuation in the price of beer by the glass could be observed. In paradox to the rising tendency of prices in bottled beer wares, there was a belief held by many that the 5-cent glass of beer was not too far in the offing.

"Embargo" of Baltimore.

Still deluged with applications for beer-vending licenses, the District beverage board yesterday brought the total of approved permits up and passed 700 out of a total of 1,200.

Beer was still somewhat scarce in the city, though demands seem to have simmered down from the white-heat desire for lager prior to and over the week-end.

Baltimore breweries still maintained a practical embargo on shipments to the Capital City and were having a hard time keeping their own dealers supplied.

Philadelphia Beer Arrives.

Some Philadelphia and "Jersey" beer is trickling into the city and with three releases of several thousand cases yesterday by the local brewery beer was fairly well obtainable.

Draft beer was not hard to get in most sections of the city. Bottled beer was still at a premium although the efforts of Washington's only brewery and the Philadelphia and "Jersey" shipments seemed to have eased the scarcity of Sunday and Saturday.

Late today and probably tomorrow, wholesalers here have hopes of shipments of beer from Milwaukee, St. Louis and other Western brewing points. Some of the wholesalers expressed apprehension, however, that the Western shipments may be delayed until the end of the week.

Brookland Group Reelects Heads

Citizens Association Backs Movement for Cut in Realty Taxes.

All officers of the Brookland Citizens Association were reelected last night. Marvin M. McLean was reelected president; William B. Lewis, vice president; Noel B. Parks, financial secretary; Dr. A. S. Mowbray, treasurer, and Dr. George R. Ellis and the president delegated to the Federation of Citizens Associations.

The association voiced its approval of the recommendations of the House Appropriations Committee to cut real estate taxes and adopted a resolution thanking Representative J. P. Buchanan, chairman of the committee, for that action. It also made known its approval of the proposal to use the surplus water tax fund for relief in the District.

Restriction of parking on Monroe street between Twelfth and Thirteenth streets northeast, was asked in a resolution which will be sent to Director of Traffic William A. Van Duzer. The group asked for the improvement of Fort Bunkerhill Park at Thirteenth and Otis streets northeast.

9-Year Luck

Fireman Who Has Escaped Serious Hurts Breaks Ankle at Play.

After nine years of fire fighting without injuries of any consequence, Private William R. Cryer, 34, of 415 K street northeast, had the hard luck yesterday to break an ankle while playing handball on the court in the rear of the engine house on Connecticut avenue near Ordway street northwest.

He was treated by the rescue squad and removed to Emergency Hospital.

OUSTER OF TENANTS FOLLOWED BY FIRE

Irate at the actions of several tenants in his rooming house at 929 I street northwest, Isaac Glaser last night ordered their eviction and padlocked the front door. Less than half an hour later the structure's interior was a mass of flames and firemen battled almost an hour to prevent the blaze from spreading to adjoining buildings.

Mr. Glaser, reaching his home, at 4853 Wisconsin avenue northwest, was notified of the fire and immediately returned to the scene. The front of the three story building is occupied by the Glaser Rubber Repair Shop. The rear is used as living quarters.

Several weeks ago, Mr. Glaser said, he rented a number of rooms to four persons, two men and two women. Recently, he said, the rooms had been scenes of numerous "wild parties." Sunday, Mr. Glaser declared, he summoned police to quiet a disturbance in the building, but the occupants disappeared before their arrival.

To his knowledge, Mr. Glaser related, at least "a dozen" persons had been living in the rooms. He went there last night, and after discovering doors broken down and other damage, ordered the occupants to vacate. When they left, all doors to the building were padlocked.

Witnesses said no one entered after Mr. Glaser's departure about 7 p. m. A half hour later the building was in flames.

Woman's Wrist Broken In Bridle-Path Mishap

Mrs. Katherine Briggs, 23, 622 C street northeast, suffered a fractured wrist and abrasions yesterday when thrown from a horse on the Rock Creek bridle paths. She was treated at Emergency Hospital and later transferred to the Homeopathic Hospital.

Tears Flow

Tears welled in the eyes of a little crippled boy and spilled on his school books as his long search for Mutt, his constant friend and companion for years, was brought to an end yesterday.

Yesterday the Animal Rescue League called Charles and told him that Mutt had been a victim of an automobile accident and had to be put out of his misery. Charles cried for an hour for he loved Mutt very much, Mrs. Boehmer said, for he has never been able to play with other boys. He had infantile paralysis when he was 3.

9-DAY OBSERVANCE OF PASSOVER BEGUN BY DISTRICT JEWRY

Opening the nine-day celebration of the Passover, Jews from far and wide gathered at the Jewish Community Center last night for the Seder, eating foods symbolical of the season and hearing and uniting in famous Hebrew hymns and psalms.

The Seder, which began shortly after sundown, marks the first hour of the joyful period when Jews, many years before the coming of Christ, were liberated from their bondage in Egypt through the annihilation of every Egyptian first born, the homes of the Jewish people being "passed over" by the wrath of the Lord.

The rising cadence of the hymns, the ecstatic notes with which they are penetrated, sung last night by Abe Shefferman, who conducted the great A. E. F. Jewish celebration in Paris in 1918, and by Ben Zion Emanuel, reflected this spirit of realized freedom.

Matzoth Is Eaten.

The food was a reminder of the event commemorated. Instead of bread, matzoth was eaten. When the 12 tribes of Israel left Egypt they did not have time to allow the bread they had made to leaven. Thus the origin of matzoth. Bitter herbs, which constitute part of the menu, were reminders of the bitterness of enslavement.

A spirit of gladness pervaded last night's gathering. The celebrants wore tricolored caps—red, white and blue. Doors of the center were flung open to all Jews—and more than 200 attended.

Jaffe Is Chairman.

The Seder was held under auspices of the Brotherhood of the Washington Hebrew Congregation in cooperation with the Jewish Community Center. Henry A. Jaffe was chairman of the committee in charge. Representative Herman Koppelman, of Connecticut, was guest of honor.

Many of those present were children, the occasion serving them with the opportunity to learn the story of Israel's deliverance and express faith in God—"defender of the right and deliverer of the oppressed."
